Wallace Yields To Troops

Integration National Duty, Kennedy Says

Race Has No Place In U.S., JFK Asserts

President Outlines Steps He Will Ask Congress To Take

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, addressing the nation after federalized state guardsmen protected the enrollment of two Negroes in the University of Alabama warned Tuesday night that the "fires of frustration and discord are burning in every American city."

Kennedy said that next week he is going to ask Congress to make a commitment to the proposition that "race has no place in American life or American law."

He sketched out what he has in mind:

Authority for declaring that all persons must be served in public places such as hotels, restaurants and similar institutions.

Authority for the federal government to participate more fully in law suits to obtain admission of Negroes to schools.

In cities North and South, Kennedy said, there are demonstrations, parades and protests which "threaten violence and threaten lives."

The problem, he said, cannot be quieted by token moves, so the nation has an opportunity and a duty to see to it that a forthcoming change is peaceful and constructive.

"Tide Of Discontent"

The chief executive said there is in American cities "a rising tide of discontent that threatens the public safety."

Kennedy addressed the nation by radio and television on a chain of events that wound up with the admission of two Negroes to the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa under troop escort.

Kennedy had ordered Gov. George C. Wallace to cease what the President called "unlawful obstructions" to admission of Vivian Juanita Malone and James A. Hood.

Wallace placed himself across the doorway of the registration building as he had pledged he would do. Kennedy issued the order necessary for use of federal troops or Alabama National Guardsmen to enforce a court order for admission of the Negroes. Wallace departed, and the Negroes enrolled.

At the University of Alabama, the President said, the fact that two qualified Negroes were enrolled was due in large measure to the attitude of other students.

Kennedy first outlined the day's developments in Tuscaloosa, noting that Alabama National Guardsmen were necessary to force registration of two qualified Alabama residents "who happened to have been born Negro."

Students' Conduct Praised

He praised the conduct of the students at the University of Alabama.

He said he hoped that every American would stop and examine his conscience. He noted the nation was founded on the principle that all men are created equal and said the country today is engaged in a worldwide struggle to see who will remain free.

He said students of any color ought to be able to select their college without having to be backed up with federal troops.

Consumers should be able to get service in places like hotels and restaurants without restriction of race, he said.

And, he went on, certainly all Americans should be able to register and vote.

He said civil rights is not a sectional issue.

Discrimination exists in every secton, in every city, Kennedy said, adding that neither is it a partsan issue.

Kennedy's dispatch of Guardsmen to the university came in the form of an order issued by Sec-

Segregation Barrier Falls At U. Of Ala.

Governor Makes Stand, Then Bows To Federal Force

BY REX THOMAS

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) —The "segregation forever" barrier raised by Gov. George C. Wallace at the University of Alabama fell without a shot fired or a brickbat thrown Tuesday.

Two Negro students were enrolled under the protection of Alabama National Guardsmen called to federal colors by President Kennedy.

The fiery segregationist governor, who had made his promised threshold stand by barring the students Tuesday morning, made no effort to resist the might invoked by the federal government after the student turndown.

He climbed into a car and rode away after commenting that it was a "bitter pill" for Alabama guardsmen to have to enforce desegregation.

Defeated in the rapid-fire succession of historic events, he nevertheless proclaimed:

"We are winning this fight because we are awakening the people of the nation to the trend toward military dictatorship. . .We must have no violence today or any day."

A few minutes after Wallace made this statement at Foster Hall, the red brick, white-pillared registration building where he made his doorway stand Tuesday morning, the two Negroes quietly walked in with federal officials and marshals, paid their fees and registered.

Last Segregation Citadel

Thus a last citadel of all-out segregation fell. Alabama had been the only state in the union without at least token integration of some public educational facilities.

With green-clad National Guardsmen standing on the alert at Foster Hall, the registration of the Negroes came almost as an anticlimax.

Vivian Juanita Malone, 20, who will study business administration, wore a pink summer frock. James A. Hood, 20, a psychology student, wore a dark suit and dark tie. Both looked poised and serious.

As they paid their fees, newsmen and photographers crowded around them. A group of white students stood nearby, watching curiously and calmly.

"This is our first and final news conference," Hood said. "We are very happy our registration has taken place without incident.

"We hope to get down to our purpose—study."

Miss Malone said:

"I'm glad registration is over and we can get down to studying. That's all we want to do here."

Then federal officials hustled them off toward a bookstore to get textbooks. They were to stay in university dormitories.

Students Cheer Governor

Federalized guardsmen from nearby areas rolled swiftly on to the campus under orders from Washington.

Brig. Gen. Henry Graham informed Wallace it was his "sad duty" to report that the guard was now under federal control. It was then that Wallace made his "bitter pill" remark.

After receiving a salute from the guard general, Wallace said: "I shall return to Montgomery (the state capital) to continue this fight on the legal questions involved."

Wallace, a former boxer, had won a round over federal authority in the morning. But it soon appeared that he could not win this bout.

Even as he barred the students, he was told sternly that they

Danville Racial Tension Brings State Troopers

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — An uneasy calm supplanted demonstrations, violence and scattered gunfire Tuesday in racially tormented Danville as state troopers were called.

Capt. J. W. Burrow, a state police divisional commander, said a small group of troopers would arrive in this big textile and tobacco hub. He said the number is uncertain. City officials requested the troopers.

Burrow's statement came after a hurried morning conference of city leaders who met to plot the city's course should more demonstrations break out similar to one which sent bullets thudding against two police cars early Tuesday.

None of the four patrolmen in the cars was hurt.

Vice Mayor George B. Anderson called for a voluntary curfew, apparently aimed at young persons. He said he was instructing the city attorney, James A. H. Ferguson, to prepare a curfew rule, effective from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m.

Many of the Negro demonstrators have been young, and apparently the proposed curfew is directed at them.

Much of Tuesday passed without incident. Some Negroes gathered for a time at a parking lot near City Hall which has been the starting point for their demonstrations. Others met in a Negro church.

Two persons were hospitalized after the flare-up of violence during the night between Negroes and police wielding night sticks. Forty - five others were given first-aid treatment. One policeman was bitten on the hand by a demonstrator.

Seventy-four persons have been arrested. Police said charges also are pending against others.

Harriman To Head U.S. Test Ban Team

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Tuesday named diplomatic troubleshooter W. Averell Harriman to head the U.S. negotiating team at next month's Moscow meeting on a nuclear test ban.

For the veteran Harriman, whose career as a roving ambassador dates back to the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, this will be his second journey to the Soviet capital in three months.

Last April he saw Premier Khrushchev on a mission to boost Soviet interest in keeping Laos independent.

John J. McCloy, former U.S. high commissioner to Germany and a disarmament expert, also had been mentioned for the assignment. The White House announcement selecting Harriman did not specify whom else Kennedy may have considered for the job.

Now, undersecretary of state for political affairs, Harriman's subcabinet rank satisfies the terms of the agreement among Kennedy, Khrushchev, and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for high-level discussions on a treaty to outlaw atomic testing.

A State Department spokesman said details on who will accompany Harriman have not been worked out. The meeting is slated to get under way in mid-July.

In announcing the new effort for a test ban pact Monday, Kennedy expressed the hope for early agreement on the long deadlocked issue. In particular, Eastern and Western negotiators have been unable to agree on how much inspection is needed to police a test ban treaty.

Washington officials Tuesday tempered any optimism with caution. They noted the Russians so far have shown no sign of yielding their opposition to on-site inspections which the West says are necessary.

Auction House For Paintings Sets New Record

LONDON (UPI) — Sotheby's famed auction house set a world record for an auction sale of modern paintings Tuesday night with a total figure of $2,922,052.

The highest sum for a single painting was $294,000 paid for Degas' "Sanseuse Basculant", a pastel exhibited only three times since it was painted in about 1879. It measured 26 by 14¼ inches.

The total sales figures beat the previous record of $2.2 million for seven Erwin Goldschmidt impressionists at Sotheby's in 1958.

Teamsters' Official Guilty Of Extortion

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI) — A federal court jury Tuesday night found New Jersey Teamsters Union leader Anthony (Tony Pro) Provenzano guilty of charges he extorted $17,100 from a trucking company executive in exchange for labor peace.

The money was extorted from Walter A. Dorn, president of Dorn Transportation, Inc., of Renesselaer, N. Y.

The jury had resumed its deliberations Tuesday after being locked up Monday night. They started Tuesday's session by hearing the judge read the 300-page testimony of the government's key witness against Provenzano.

Kennedy Rights Plan May Carry FEPC Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disclosure that President Kennedy is considering asking Congress to set up a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) threatened bipartisan support for his civil rights program Tuesday.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told a news conference after a White House meeting of GOP congressional leaders with Kennedy that a proposal to set up a commission to enforce equality in employment had been discussed.

Congress has rejected similar proposals in the past.

So far as he is concerned, Dirksen said, he could not go along with clothing such a commission with subpoena power "which could easily be abused and should not be given lightly." He said some pending bills would permit a commission to seize private business records on the basis of one complaining letter.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said he is urging Kennedy to include in his recommendations a provision outlawing racial discrimination in any program to whch the federal government contributes funds. He made no mention of the FEPC proposal.

Dirksen said he does not expect the administration proposals to jell until next week, after a conference of the President with leaders of both parties.

Agreeing with this, Humphrey said it may take months of effort to win congressional approval of any civil rights proposal.

In the meantime, he said "we will have to do the best we can with the tools we have" to attempt to prevent the spread of racial violence growing out of Negro demands for equal treatment.

Dirksen said Kennedy had discussed proposals to give the attorney general the authority to intervene in and to institute civil rights suits. He said this might be divided in two parts, one dealng only with school integration and a second in a limited way with other instances of discrimination.

Negroes Again March On Jail At Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A group of some 175 chanting, singing Negroes marched on the courthouse and jail of this Eastern Shore community Tuesday night for the second straight night.

As crowds of white on-lookers crowded the streets, the Negroes marched two abreast from the Negro section of town, then massed in front of the jail where 21 of their number, arrested in demonstrations Monday night are housed.

About a dozen local patrolmen and sheriff's deputies kept the white crowds separated from the Negroes.

Greek Premier Resigns In Row

ATHENS (UPI)—The Greek government resigned Tuesday night because of "complete disagreement" with King Paul's determination to go through with a state visit to Britain next month.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis announced his resignation to the press after a brief audience with the King at the Royal Palace. He said the audience ended in "complete disagreement."

Premier Caramanlis immediately summoned a meeting of his cabinet to inform members of the resignation.

Reliable sources said he had proposed to the King that new elections be held under a majority system, with a caretaker government in charge.

The majority system, by which Caramanlis first came to power in 1956 has been declared unacceptable by the opposition.

The resignation was the drastic outcome of long weeks of wrangling over the London visit between the government and the Royal Palace.

Rail Showdown Delayed; Talks Are Resumed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiators in the railroad work rules dispute, after assuring a five-day delay in a strike deadline, resumed bargaining Tuesday with signs they were getting down to brass tacks.

For the first time the sessions were stripped of nonessential parties. The bargaining was limited to the railroads and the two unions directly concerned by the central question of eventual removal of 40,000 firemen from freight and yard trains.

Previous sessions have involved all five operating unions.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz did not attend a morning session, described by some participants as productive.

A delay of any strike until after midnight Monday was assured when the unions informed Wirtz they would accede to his request for a five-day extension of the strike deadline, originally set for Wednesday night.

The railroads had agreed to the delay when Wirtz made the request.

Unless there is a further extension, or some agreement with the unions, the railroads will be free after midnight Monday to put into effect new work rules providing for eventual elimination of all firemen from freight and yard trains.

The railroads contend that outdated work rules cost them $600 million each year in unnecessary operating expenses.

Also at issue is the right of the railroads to change work rules to meet technological developments, but most observers believe this question will be at least settled when machinery is set up to settle the dispute over firemen.

Five unions, representing some 200,000 on-train employes are involved in the over-all dispute.

Brakes Failed, Says Driver Of Truck That Plunged Into Ravine, Killing 12

HOLE-IN-THE-ROCK, Utah (AP)—"I just didn't have any brakes."

Calmly, Stephan Ahlborn, 21, told Tuesday of the tragic truck accident that killed seven Boy Scouts, four of their leaders and a woman reporter in south-central Utah Monday.

Ahlborn was driver of the truck, which carried 46 persons, including about 35 scouts. Laughing and joking, they were headed for a boat trip down the Colorado River. The 2½-ton vehicle rolled backward off a desert road and plunged into a 100-foot ravine.

Occupants were strewn among the wreckage like rag dolls. At least 33 were injured. Most of the dead were pinned beneath the truck.

"It happened so fast, I really don't know what happened," Ahlborn said.

"I had no trouble at all with the truck going down into the ravine. When I turned up this steep hill, I started to downshift and when it started to slide, I stepped on the brakes and they weren't there."

Ahlborn, a sophomore at Brigham Young University, last week took a similar group in the same truck to Hite, Utah, for a river trip. This time he took a different, unfamiliar route.

The dead included H. Darrell Taylor, 45, a language professor at Brigham Young University; Merlin J. Shaw, 51, an assistant professor and father of six, and William A. Creer, 39, an assistant Scout master whose son, Allen, was among the injured. All were from Provo.

Dorothy Hansen, 24, a reporter for the Deseret News in Salt Lake City, also was killed. She was on vacation but went on the trip to get a feature story.

Along, too, was Dr. John H. Cook, a Salt Lake City physician, riding with Ahlborn in the cab. He suffered a rib injury.

"I crawled out and there were bodies all over," he said. "The first dead body I found was my brother."

His brother, Robert, 29 is a Salt Lake City high school teacher.

It was about two hours before sheriff's officers got to the scene, about 200 miles south of Salt Lake City and 10 miles from Hole-in-the-Rock, a crevice in the towering Glen Canyon walls along the Colorado River.

Goodyear Warehouse Burned By Terrorists

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—Heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists attacked and burned the American-owned Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. warehouse Tuesday, causing an estimated $500,000 damage. It was the second attack on the warehouse in the past year.

One of the company's 36 employes and a fireman were injured in the attack, latest in a series of terrorist raids on American installations in Venezuela. Firemen removed 20 families from the area because of smoke.

Profumo Did Not Leak Secrets, Probe Decides

LONDON (AP) — Official sources said Britain's top judge cleared former War Minister John Profumo Tuesday of suspicions he had leaked secrets to the Russians when he shared the love of Christine Keeler with a Soviet naval attache.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan heard the results of the secret probe into the sex and security scandal at an emergency meeting of his top aides. He then drove to Buckingham Palace to report to Queen Elizabeth II at his regular weekly audience.

The investigation was made by Lord Dilhorne who, as lord chancellor, heads the judiciary.

Bucked by the results, MacMillan planned to demand an informal vote of confidence from his Conservative Cabinet Wednesday before facing an expected Labor party onslaught in Parliament Monday. Many Conservatives also have been dismayed by the case.

Profumo, 48, resigned last week after he had admitted he had lied to the House of Commons when he said there was no impropriety in his relationship with Miss Keeler, 21, a redhead usually referred to as a model.

He has insisted all along that no security breach was involved even though Miss Keeler was simultaneously sharing her favors with Capt. Yevgeni (Honey Bear) Ivanov of the Soviet navy.

Presumably Lord Dilhorne was convinced this was true.

Profumo, who conferred with Dilhorne secretly, remained in hiding as did his beautiful wife, onetime film star Valerie Hobson.

Seven Armed Felons Flee Arizona Prison

FLORENCE, Ariz. (UPI) — Seven convicts, described as armed and dangerous, escaped from the Arizona State Prison here Tuesday afternoon.

Law enforcement officers dispatched cars to the area from all directions, and the Arizona Highway Patrol was trying to get an airplane over the area.

Authorities said the escapees were thought to have made their break in a pick-up truck.

Rail Showdown Delayed; Talks Are Resumed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiators in the railroad work rules dispute, after assuring a five-day delay in a strike deadline, resumed bargaining Tuesday with signs they were getting down to brass tacks.

For the first time the sessions were stripped of nonessential parties. The bargaining was limited to the railroads and the two unions directly concerned by the central question of eventual removal of 40,000 firemen from freight and yard trains.

Previous sessions have involved all five operating unions.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz did not attend a morning session, described by some participants as productive.

A delay of any strike until after midnight Monday was assured when the unions informed Wirtz they would accede to his request for a five-day extension of the strike deadline, originally set for Wednesday night.

The railroads had agreed to the delay when Wirtz made the request.

Unless there is a further extension, or some agreement with the unions, the railroads will be free after midnight Monday to put into effect new work rules providing for eventual elimination of all firemen from freight and yard trains.

The railroads contend that outdated work rules cost them $600 million each year in unnecessary operating expenses.

Also at issue is the right of the railroads to change work rules to meet technological developments, but most observers believe this question will be at least settled when machinery is set up to settle the dispute over firemen.

Five unions, representing some 200,000 on-train employes are involved in the over-all dispute.

Brakes Failed, Says Driver Of Truck That Plunged Into Ravine, Killing 12

HOLE-IN-THE-ROCK, Utah (AP)—"I just didn't have any brakes."

Calmly, Stephan Ahlborn, 21, told Tuesday of the tragic truck accident that killed seven Boy Scouts, four of their leaders and a woman reporter in south-central Utah Monday.

Ahlborn was driver of the truck, which carried 46 persons, including about 35 scouts. Laughing and joking, they were headed for a boat trip down the Colorado River. The 2½-ton vehicle rolled backward off a desert road and plunged into a 100-foot ravine.

Occupants were strewn among the wreckage like rag dolls. At least 33 were injured. Most of the dead were pinned beneath the truck.

"It happened so fast, I really don't know what happened," Ahlborn said.

"I had no trouble at all with the truck going down into the ravine. When I turned up this steep hill, I started to downshift and when it started to slide, I stepped on the brakes and they weren't there."

Ahlborn, a sophomore at Brigham Young University, last week took a similar group in the same truck to Hite, Utah, for a river trip. This time he took a different, unfamiliar route.

The dead included H. Darrell Taylor, 45, a language professor at Brigham Young University; Merlin J. Shaw, 51, an assistant professor and father of six, and William A. Creer, 39, an assistant Scout master whose son, Allen, was among the injured. All were from Provo.

Dorothy Hansen, 24, a reporter for the Deseret News in Salt Lake City, also was killed. She was on vacation but went on the trip to get a feature story.

Along, too, was Dr. John H. Cook, a Salt Lake City physician, riding with Ahlborn in the cab. He suffered a rib injury.

"I crawled out and there were bodies all over," he said. "The first dead body I found was my brother."

His brother, Robert, 29 is a Salt Lake City high school teacher.

It was about two hours before sheriff's officers got to the scene, about 200 miles south of Salt Lake City and 10 miles from Hole-in-the-Rock, a crevice in the towering Glen Canyon walls along the Colorado River.

Goodyear Warehouse Burned By Terrorists

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—Heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists attacked and burned the American-owned Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. warehouse Tuesday, causing an estimated $500,000 damage. It was the second attack on the warehouse in the past year.

One of the company's 36 employes and a fireman were injured in the attack, latest in a series of terrorist raids on American installations in Venezuela. Firemen removed 20 families from the area because of smoke.

Profumo Did Not Leak Secrets, Probe Decides

LONDON (AP) — Official sources said Britain's top judge cleared former War Minister John Profumo Tuesday of suspicions he had leaked secrets to the Russians when he shared the love of Christine Keeler with a Soviet naval attache.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan heard the results of the secret probe into the sex and security scandal at an emergency meeting of his top aides. He then drove to Buckingham Palace to report to Queen Elizabeth II at his regular weekly audience.

The investigation was made by Lord Dilhorne who, as lord chancellor, heads the judiciary.

Bucked by the results, MacMillan planned to demand an informal vote of confidence from his Conservative Cabinet Wednesday before facing an expected Labor party onslaught in Parliament Monday. Many Conservatives also have been dismayed by the case.

Profumo, 48, resigned last week after he had admitted he had lied to the House of Commons when he said there was no impropriety in his relationship with Miss Keeler, 21, a redhead usually referred to as a model.

He has insisted all along that no security breach was involved even though Miss Keeler was simultaneously sharing her favors with Capt. Yevgeni (Honey Bear) Ivanov of the Soviet navy.

Presumably Lord Dilhorne was convinced this was true.

Profumo, who conferred with Dilhorne secretly, remained in hiding as did his beautiful wife, onetime film star Valerie Hobson.

Seven Armed Felons Flee Arizona Prison

FLORENCE, Ariz. (UPI) — Seven convicts, described as armed and dangerous, escaped from the Arizona State Prison here Tuesday afternoon.

Law enforcement officers dispatched cars to the area from all directions, and the Arizona Highway Patrol was trying to get an airplane over the area.

Authorities said the escapees were thought to have made their break in a pick-up truck.

Racial Peace Unit Disbands At Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) - Hopes for any settlement of racial troubles here dwindled away today when an arbitrating committee disbanded.

The Cambridge Committee on Interracial Understanding, set up by Judge W. Laird Henry Jr., four weeks ago to help in negotiations between integrationists and businessmen and city officials, decided at a meeting this afternoon to give up.

"Negotiations have broken down," the committee said in a prepared statement "and the committee feels it serves no useful purpose. We deeply regret the course of events which led to this decision."

Judge Henry, chief judge of Maryland's 1st Judicial Circuit, organized the group of five white Cambridge businessmen and attorneys to persuade the town's white citizens to accept a list of reforms submitted by integrationists.

The committee's efforts had brought a halt to a series of picketing demonstrations and marches in which 70 demonstrators were arrested last month.

The only arrests between then and Monday night came at a Memorial Day picketing demonstration at the Recreation Center where five persons were taken into custody.

Twenty-five Negroes were arrested Monday night when they marched on the courthouse with about 75 other persons to protest the sentencing of two 15-year-old juveniles to training schools. The juveniles, a boy and a girl, had been arrested during racial demonstrations and had been sentenced as juvenile delinquents.

The 25 prisoners smashed plumbing fixtures, stuffed mattresses through cell bars, and spat on guards who tried to restore order.

Mixed Marriage Ideas Of Cardinal Clarified

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Catholic Review, official newspaper of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, says it hopes Richard Cardinal Cushing's remarks about mixed marriages will not be misunderstood.

Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, has advocated removing many of the church's restrictions on marriages between Catholics and non-Catholics.

In an editorial prepared for this week's issue, to be published Thursday night, the Catholic Review said "A distinction must be made between a Catholic's conscientious duty to raise all his children in what he believes to be the one true faith, and the written promise presently required of the non-Catholic to permit his spouse to execute that duty.

"Cardinal Cushing's suggestion applies merely to the question of requiring a signed promise, a requirement that irritates many persons whose word is their bond, and causes others to sign in bad faith.

"Although the cardinal does not treat the matter specifically in the article quoted, he undoubtedly presupposes that the Catholic party will choose a spouse conscientiously able and willing to honor the admittedly stern demands of the Catholic conscience."

Bonn Planning 200,000-Man Reserve Army

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany is planning a 200,000-man reserve army—similar to the U.S. National Guard—for behind-the-lines duty in the event of war. It will not be under the direct command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

West Germany is already building a 520,000-man regular army as its contribution to NATO defense. The Territorial Reserve will be separate.

Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel hopes to have the outline of his plan ready next month. Because of a shortage of trained noncommissioned officers in West Germany it is expected the Territorial Reserve will reach only one-quarter of its full planned strength by 1966.

Von Hassel's predecessor, Franz Josef Strauss, had little interest in building a home force. He believed that any war in Europe would likely be an atomic rope would likely be an atomic war.

But Von Hassel agrees with Kennedy administration strategists, who give more attention to the chances of a more conventional struggle in which the Territorial Reserve would play an important role.

West Germany already has a 20,000-man defense force, drawn from the regular army.

Every 18 months, West Germany trains a group of 150,000 young men in the army. There are about 400,000 men who have had this training since the end of World War II. According to regulations, they must report for one month of training every year. But because of a lack of barracks and other facilities, few are called.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A West Virginia Civil Air Patrol spokesman said Tuesday a search for a light plane believed down somewhere in central West Virginia has been called off.

The plane has been missing since the night of June 3 on a flight from Roanoke, Va., to Alliance, Ohio. Aboard were Ernest Pelizaari, 51, of Sebring, Ohio, and Edward Beltrami, 50, of Alliance, Ohio.

would be registered by nightfall and be in class Wednesday.

In a bloodless confrontation Tuesday morning—a cold staring match and exchange of hard-bitten words between Wallace and a federal official—the Dixie segregationist made the threshold stand he had promised in campaign oratory.

He waved a hand and refused to let the Negroes enroll for higher studies in the summer session, despite court orders for their admission.

Six times Nicholas Katzenbach, deputy U.S. attorney general from Washington, asked Wallace to "step aside peacefully" and "do your constitutional duty" by giving unequivocal assurances that the students could pass through the portals and enroll.

Wallace replied that he did "hereby denounce and forbid this illegal and unwarranted action by the central government."

He read a prepared statement saying: "The unwelcome, unwanted, unwarranted and force-induced intrusion upon the campus of the University of Alabama today of the might of central government offers frightful example of the supression of the rights, privileges and sovereignty of this state by officers of the federal government."

Katzenbach told him coldly: "These students will remain on this campus. They will register today. They will go to school tomorrow."

Quickly Kennedy signed orders authorizing Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to call Alabama guardsmen to the national colors and also use federal troops if need be.

Diem Asks Calm After Buddhist Torch Suicide

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The torch suicide of a Buddhist monk led President Ngo Dinh Diem to appeal to the Vietnamese people Tuesday night for calm in a religious-political crisis menacing his U.S.-backed government.

"I solemnly declare that behind Buddhism in this country, there is the Constitution, which means I myself," said Diem, a Roman Catholic.

The president said negotiations on Buddhist demands for more religious freedom and social justice had been going well and further talks are scheduled Wednesday. But extremist propaganda hid the facts and sowed suspicion about the good will of his government, he said.

"Therefore, a number of people became intoxicated, and a regrettable suicide took place, about which I am very sorry," he added.

The monk who immolated himself was the Rev. Quang Duc, 73. He seated himself in his yellow robes, with his eyes closed and legs crossed in the traditional pose of Buddhist repose, at one of Saigon's main intersections. Two fellow monks drenched him with five gallons of gasoline, then retreated. Quang Duc calmly struck a match.

While thousands watched in horror, the gasoline ignited with a rush. Flames encircled the monk and danced up to five feet above his head.

There was wailing from 300 monks and nuns about him, some lying at the wheels of nearby fire trucks to prevent them from going to the rescue.

Quang Duc perished mutely. He sat silently for several minutes. Then, with the flames still flickering, he toppled backward.

Crowds of men, women and children wept behind police barricades. The charred remains were wrapped in yellow robes and carried with an enormous Buddhist flag—in defiance of a government order against display of such flags—to a Buddhist pagoda.

Police made no effort to break up the crowds but blockaded several of Saigon's most important pagodas, including the one to which the body was taken.

Murder Warrant Out For Contractor

SALISBURY (AP) — Maryland State Police issued a murder warrant for a Dover, Del., contractor Tuesday in connection with the death of the manager of the Jim Walter Corp., a Salisbury home building company.

Charged in the warrant was Kirk A. Davis, 28, of Dover, a subcontractor for the company. Police issued a three-state alarm for Davis' arrest.

An employe reporting for work found Russell E. Farmer, 38, of Laurel, Del., slumped over his desk Tuesday at the company's office on U.S. 13 about four miles north of Salisbury.

The Wicomico County state's attorney, Alfred T. Truitt Jr., said death was caused by strangulation.

The employe who found the body, Hugh Messick, went to the barracks nearby and notified State Police.

Mayors Slated To Back JFK's Racial Program

HONOLULU (AP)—The nation's mayors are almost certain to give their approval Wednesday to President Kennedy's program aimed at wiping out racial discrimination in cities.

Spurred by Kennedy's civil rights talks Sunday and the strong support other speakers have given the President's proposals, the U.S. Conference of Mayors is expected to endorse the plan.

There may be some objections from Southern delegates but conference officials believe these will be just for the record.

The resolutions committee drew up a civil rights program containing Kennedy's suggestions. It added a point urging that "citizens be encouraged to recognize the correlation of responsibility and duty with right and that equality of responsibility be encouraged along with equality of opportunity."

Addition of the point in the civil rights stand—recognizing the corellation between right and duty—came at the suggestion of Mayor Herman W. Goldner of St. Petersburg, Fla., a member of the resolutions committee.

He had criticized Kennedy's speech to the conference as putting too much emphasis on rights and not enough on responsibility. Goldner said the President seemed to be overlooking duty in handling the racial problem.

Roosevelt Will Visit Maryland, West Virginia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. announced Tuesday plans to visit seven states in the Appalachian area beginning June 17 as part of an effort to pep up the economy of the region.

Roosevelt, chairman of President Kennedy's Appalachian Regional Committee, and other federal officials will visit Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and Maryland.

The committee includes representatives of federal agencies which are concerned with development projects in the region, and representatives of the governors of the states involved.

In a letter to the seven governors, Roosevelt said the visits will be only a first step, and he added:

"We should avoid discussion of specific projects. We would hope that your leaders can tell us what major problems face the Appalachian regions."

Roosevelt's itinerary includes:

June 18—All-day meeting in Charleston with Gov. William W. Barron.

June 27—10 a.m. meeting with Gov. J. Millard Tawes at Annapolis, ending at noon.

Should the world's greatest gin unexcelled in a martini . . . be lavished in a gin-and-tonic?
In a word, YES!
To make the world's tangiest gin-and-tonic, you need the world's dryest, smoothest gin.
This gin is taken through a costly extra step to remove sweetness and perfumery. A step that endows it with a dry flavor, a smooth taste.
So, when you think of gin-and-tonic, think of Seagram's.
The gin worthy of the words "Extra Dry."

Ex-Legislators' Defense Ridiculed By Prosecutor

BALTIMORE (AP) — The defense of two former congressmen to charges of selling their influence was called Tuesday a "clear lie beyond any doubt" and a subterfuge by a federal government prosecutor today.

"I ask you," J. Hardin Marion 3d addressed the jury, "if the testimony for all four defendants ought not to be characterized as shocking."

The assistant U.S. attorney fired heaviest at the two former Democratic congressmen in his 2 hours, 54 minutes of final arguments in the trial under way since April 1.

Thomas F. Johnson, former two-term representative from Maryland, and Frank W. Boykin, an Alabama congressman for 28 years, are accused of accepting pay to pressure the Justice Department to drop a mail fraud indictment against J. Kenneth Edlin, a Miami operator of savings and loan associations in Maryland.

Edlin's associate and lawyer, William L. Robinson, also is charged in the conspiracy.

Marion carried his sharpest attacks at Johnson, who is charged with conflict of interest in addition to conspiracy to deprive the government of uninterrupted right to conduct its business.

"His defense was wholly incredible and totally unworthy of your belief," Marion told the jury. "It was a sham and a clear lie beyond any doubt. He was seeking to perpetrate a fraud upon you."

Marion, frequently reading excerpts from the transcript of the trial, said Johnson's testimony was in startling contrast to what he had told the FBI and grand jury.

"If he was willing to deceive this jury, the grand jury and the FBI," Marion declared, "he would have been quite willing to deceive the Justice Department in order to secure the dismissal of the indictment of a man who was paying him sums of money."

Johnson maintained at his trial that money he was paid by Edlin interests was for legal services while Boykin sought to justify $250,000 as a bona fide part of the sale of land to the savings and loan operator.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special)—A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN*.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Heavy Rainfall Brightens Crop Outlook In State

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Frequent and heavy rain last week brightened the crop prospects in Maryland.

"Soil moisture supplies are generally adequate for the first time in two months," the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday, adding that some Eastern Shore areas reported a surplus of moisture.

All of Southern Maryland and portions of Frederick, Dorchester and Talbot counties had more than four inches of rainfall for the week ended June 7. The total for the week was almost six inches in the Baltimore area. One to two inches of rain fell in extreme Western Maryland and elsewhere the range was two to four inches.

Corn stands were reported to be good. Corn planting was virtually complete on the Eastern Shore and about 90 per cent finished west of the bay.

Many farmers postponed hay cutting to await additional growth. The first alfalfa cutting was running 20 per cent behind last year, as was clover mowing.

Despite the rains, the weekly weather-crop report said pastures continued to be below average, although they had improved. Planting summer annual forage crops was an important activity of the week on livestock farms.

The report said fruit and vegetable crops were developing normally but the Maryland peach crop is expected to be the smallest since 1947 because of extensive winter and spring freeze damage.

Jackie And Children Return To Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy and her two children returned to the White House Tuesday after a long weekend at the presidential retreat, Camp David, in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland.

They had been at Camp David since last Friday, while the President was on his western and Hawaii trip.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — About 125 employes of Ellicott Machine Corp. are eligible to vote Friday on whether they want to be represented by the United Mine Workers.

Employes of the concern, which manufactures dredges and dredging equipment, decided in 1960 against joining the Marine Allied Workers, a branch of the AFL-CIO Seafarers' International Union.

Most of the employes are production and maintenance employes or truck drivers.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A sentence of life imprisonment has been given Roy H. Cantler, 21, for the murder of Mrs. Ida Baker two years ago.

Two other men, Robert L. Stevens, 21, and Ronald L. Giles, 22, had already been tried and convicted in the death of the 64-year-old woman. Stevens and Giles also received life sentences.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A spirit of cautious optimism was recommended to 986 students who graduated Tuesday from Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Otto F. Kraushaar, the commencement speaker, said that despite the world's present troubles, "A fresh appraisal of mankind's potentialities and frailties supports a chastened, cautious optimism."

Dr. Kraushaar, president of Goucher College, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Owners of six oceanfront lots on Assateague Island have refused to sell their property to the state for $6,000 for a proposed state park.

Their refusal has apparently blocked immediate acquisition of the land by the state. Condemnation proceedings under way in Worcester County Circuit Court cannot be concluded until a related case before the Maryland Court of Appeals is settled.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A Potomac River outboard marathon race scheduled June 29 from Washington, D.C. to Piney Point, St. Marys County, has been canceled, the Department of Economic Development was advised Tuesday.

The Southern Maryland Boat Club, which was to sponsor the race in cooperation with the Economic Development Department and the Department of Tidewater Fisheries, said it would be unable to complete arrangements in time. A department spokesman said the club hopes to stage the race next year.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A blonde mother of three pleaded self defense Tuesday at her murder trial for the death of her husband.

Mrs. Nancy Fay Youngker, 24, heard her lawyers say that Cromer L. Youngker, 42, lunged for a shotgun, causing the gun to discharge. Youngker was hit in the chest.

A jury of seven women and five men heard the case in Criminal Court. Youngker was killed May 2.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Daniel McNew rescued Donald A. Greenwalt of Towson and Dennis H. Oates of Timonium from the Chesapeake Bay Tuesday after they had clung for seven hours to their capsized sailboat.

McNew was one of a dozen boatmen who joined the Coast Guard and the Tidewaters Fisheries Commission in searching for the two, both 20, near Carr's Beach

PRR Stock Disposal In 10 Years Advised

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 10-year period was recommended Tuesday for the Pennsylvania Railroad to dispose of its large block of stock in the Norfolk & Western Railroad in a merger move.

The recommendation was advanced by Dr. Harry G. Guthmann, Northwestern University finance professor, who undertook a special study of the matter for the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Inquiry and Compliance.

An ICC examiner had recommended that the Pennsylvania be required to dispose of its N&W holdings as a condition merger.

Mrs. Isiminger Installed Garden Club President

Announcements were made and officers were installed at a brief meeting of the Garden Club of Cumberland conducted by Mrs. J. Donald Gibson Monday evening at the Woman's Civic Club house. Mrs. George Henderson officiated at the installation.

Mrs. Ralph Isiminger was installed as president; Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, first vice president; and Mrs. Robert Hortsman, corresponding secretary.

A report was given by Mrs. Howard L. Tolson, who with Mrs. William Frailey attended a landscape design school.

Volunteers were requested by Mrs. Gibson to care for the Helen Miller Memorial at Constitution Park. Mrs. Guy Bradour and Mrs. Robert Hunter volunteered for July; Edward Shaffer, for August; Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Steinberger, September.

As program chairman, Mrs. Steinberger requested the members to take color slides of the flowers in their gardens during growing season, so that she can base a program on the members' gardens. If any are unable to take the pictures, she asked them to call her and she will do it.

The program for the evening was given by Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson and Miss Mary Wise. It consisted of travel slides of flowers they saw in Europe, British Columbia and Hawaii.

A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served. The committee of arrangements for the evening consisted of Mrs. Carl Goetz, Mrs. Bernard Fleigle, Mrs. A. H. Amick and Mrs. George Hess. The club recessed for the summer. Meetings will be resumed September 9.

Dutch Folk Festival Jun. 29-Jul. 6

Outlanders from all over the nation will have an opportunity to visit with the Pennsylvania Dutch now that house-bootzing time—as the Dutch call housecleaning in their dialect—is over.

The ideal visiting time is the annual Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival. This year's festival, the 14th, will be held June 29 through July 6, at Kutztown, Pennsylvania—a spotless Dutch town of some 3,000 people, most of them Dutch in tongue. The festival town is located midway between Reading and Allentown, on Route 222.

The festival is much like visiting grandmother on the farm. Elderly Dutch women, remembering the skills of their own grandmothers, will plait broad-brimmed hats of bleached rye-straw, stitch shtrip-heet-bonnets with a quilted scoop and a huge cape to protect winter-white complexions.

Among farm chores traditionally assigned to women there will be demonstrations of lye-leaching for soap-boiling, lime-mixing for whitewashing the garden fence, filling the chaff-bag with flailed rye-straw cut into inch-lengths on a shneid-bunk, scare-crow making with discards from the clothes-press, "gleppering" the bees with kitchen gear at swarming time, decorating Easter eggs with binsagraws, a meadow rush.

Grandmother remedies range from blowing burns to mumbling pow-wow charms; from greasing the chest with goose-fat to measuring an illness with a red woolen string; from concocting a tea from seven herbs gathered on Ascension Day to the bag of deiwels-dreck (literally, devil's filth—asafoetida) worn around the neck of the schoolchild to ward off illness.

Pennsylvania the "plain state," is famous above all else for its nonconformity which expresses itself in plain garb and horse-drawn transportation. Housed in exhibition buildings are displays of the garb of the Hook-and-Eye Amish, the Team Mennonites, and the Conservative Dunkards. Featured daily are two stage programs on Pennsylvania plain garb, from the dress of the Ephrata monk, the Plain Quaker, and the Schwenkfelder—now no longer seen—to the contemporary plain costumes of the White Carriage Amish and the Black Bumper Mennonites.

Games and songs of yesterday will resound over the festival grounds. Bush-meeting spirituals, gallows ballads and mournful folksongs will be presented in pageant and stage programs. The play-party games of the husking bee and the loompa-party will be staged daily. Championship square dance sets from the Dutch counties will illustrate hoedown and jigging folk-dancing.

The main attraction, afternoon and evenings, is the two-hour Pageant of Gay Dutch Folklikfe, highlighting such aspects of rural life as the funeral feast, the fendoo, and the tsook or moving-day, with all its mirth and gaiety.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Some Accessory Tricks

Accessories with imagination can give any outfit the coveted custom look.

To spark a dull black dress, try a patent belt, shorties and shell jewelry in white. Let your shoes and bag be black patent.

Any wishy-washy pastel, regardless of its hue, will take on new, interesting fashion value with the addition of palm green kid sandals and a paisley satchel in which green predominates. For extra fillip, wear enameled flower earrings that are a near-match to the costume's coloring. Subtle? Fetching, too!

Nectarine, the dense orange shade, and lemon-peel yellow used singly or together can't be beat for perking up a beige costume.

If the dress is tailored, try a yellow patent belt stuck through with an outsized bunch of nectarine-hued flowers. If it's a suit that's bothering you, a yellow and orange bag and yellow fabric gloves could prove to be the right gay lift. In either case, keep any other accessories neutral in tone.

To give beachwear dash, there is nothing like hot pink—hotter than ever now in straw bags, thatched hats, terry ponchos, seashell-rimmed sun glasses and canvas espadrilles. Against sand and sea, what an eyeful!

But when the sun goes down, the most charming late-day effects are achieved through deep pastels—a pleated chiffon stole in peacock, mauve strip sandals lined with a flower print, jeweltoned rhinestones or "heavenly" blue roses.

You show your fashion awareness by picking newsy shades, fabrics and shapes to accessorize your dim-hued outfits—but you show your fashion sophistication by never wearing more than three items in the same bright color and never more than two bright colors in the same costume.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ◇

The lead of a suit in which declarer is void in both hands is strictly taboo for the simple reason that it affords declarer the opportunity to ruff in one hand as he discards a loser from the other hand. Nevertheless there are times when this apparently foolhardy procedure may be the only way to defeat a contract.

West recognized the situation and put it to use to set South down in his contract of four spades. The bidding was quite natural. North with 18 high card points and a balanced hand with protection in four suits had an indicated opening of one no trump. Holding two short suits South decided to make his try for a game in spades and made a jump shift take-out to three spades. Here North was called upon to make a momentous decision. He might rebid three no trump which would perhaps have been a happier choice but holding such impressive trumps he decided in favor of going on to game in the major suit. On a casual analysis it would appear that the no trump game contract could be defeated by the lead of a heart. West wins with the ace and shifts to the queen of diamonds. If declarer ducks two rounds of the suit East's ace must fall and the suit is effectively blocked. If West fails to shift declarer can run off with 11 or 12 tricks.

Against the four spade contract the natural lead was the queen of diamonds and declarer was compelled to ruff the third round. If he extracted all the trumps he could count only nine tricks, for West would cash the ace of hearts when that suit was led and put the remainder of his diamond suit to good use. When South learned of the bad trump break he made an effort to sneak thru a heart trick, but West rose with his ace and continued with a fourth round of diamonds which put an end to declarer's dream. If he ruffed in dummy West's ten of spades would be the setting trick and if he ruffed in the closed hand West would be left with numerical superiority in trumps.

Mrs. Isiminger Installed Garden Club President

Announcements were made and officers were installed at a brief meeting of the Garden Club of Cumberland conducted by Mrs. J. Donald Gibson Monday evening at the Woman's Civic Club house. Mrs. George Henderson officiated at the installation.

Mrs. Ralph Isiminger was installed as president; Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, first vice president; and Mrs. Robert Hortsman, corresponding secretary.

A report was given by Mrs. Howard L. Tolson, who with Mrs. William Frailey attended a landscape design school.

Volunteers were requested by Mrs. Gibson to care for the Helen Miller Memorial at Constitution Park. Mrs. Guy Bradour and Mrs. Robert Hunter volunteered for July; Edward Shaffer, for August; Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Steinberger, September.

As program chairman, Mrs. Steinberger requested the members to take color slides of the flowers in their gardens during growing season, so that she can base a program on the members' gardens. If any are unable to take the pictures, she asked them to call her and she will do it.

The program for the evening was given by Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson and Miss Mary Wise. It consisted of travel slides of flowers they saw in Europe, British Columbia and Hawaii.

A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served. The committee of arrangements for the evening consisted of Mrs. Carl Goetz, Mrs. Bernard Fleigle, Mrs. A. H. Amick and Mrs. George Hess. The club recessed for the summer. Meetings will be resumed September 9.

Dutch Folk Festival Jun. 29-Jul. 6

Outlanders from all over the nation will have an opportunity to visit with the Pennsylvania Dutch now that house-bootzing time—as the Dutch call housecleaning in their dialect—is over.

The ideal visiting time is the annual Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival. This year's festival, the 14th, will be held June 29 through July 6, at Kutztown, Pennsylvania—a spotless Dutch town of some 3,000 people, most of them Dutch in tongue. The festival town is located midway between Reading and Allentown, on Route 222.

The festival is much like visiting grandmother on the farm. Elderly Dutch women, remembering the skills of their own grandmothers, will plait broad-brimmed hats of bleached rye-straw, stitch shtrip-heet-bonnets with a quilted scoop and a huge cape to protect winter-white complexions.

Among farm chores traditionally assigned to women there will be demonstrations of lye-leaching for soap-boiling, lime-mixing for whitewashing the garden fence, filling the chaff-bag with flailed rye-straw cut into inch-lengths on a shneid-bunk, scare-crow making with discards from the clothes-press, "gleppering" the bees with kitchen gear at swarming time, decorating Easter eggs with binsagraws, a meadow rush.

Grandmother remedies range from blowing burns to mumbling pow-wow charms; from greasing the chest with goose-fat to measuring an illness with a red woolen string; from concocting a tea from seven herbs gathered on Ascension Day to the bag of deiwels-dreck (literally, devil's filth—asafoetida) worn around the neck of the schoolchild to ward off illness.

Pennsylvania the "plain state," is famous above all else for its nonconformity which expresses itself in plain garb and horse-drawn transportation. Housed in exhibition buildings are displays of the garb of the Hook-and-Eye Amish, the Team Mennonites, and the Conservative Dunkards. Featured daily are two stage programs on Pennsylvania plain garb, from the dress of the Ephrata monk, the Plain Quaker, and the Schwenkfelder—now no longer seen—to the contemporary plain costumes of the White Carriage Amish and the Black Bumper Mennonites.

Games and songs of yesterday will resound over the festival grounds. Bush-meeting spirituals, gallows ballads and mournful folksongs will be presented in pageant and stage programs. The play-party games of the husking bee and the loompa-party will be staged daily. Championship square dance sets from the Dutch counties will illustrate hoedown and jigging folk-dancing.

The main attraction, afternoon and evenings, is the two-hour Pageant of Gay Dutch Folklikfe, highlighting such aspects of rural life as the funeral feast, the fendoo, and the tsook or moving-day, with all its mirth and gaiety.

Wall Street Views

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market may be in for further consolidation or a moderate correction, according to talk on Wall Street.

However, many investment analysts still are confident that the market, as measured by the Dow Jones Industrial Average, is headed for new peaks this summer or fall.

The advisory service, Standard & Poor's Corp., say the stalemate reached in the market last week was the result of a probing action. It developed after the list had soared 11 per cent in three months and had come within striking distance of the record 1961 high.

The service is of the opinion that it wasn't surprising that resistance was encountered in this area and that some further backing and filling may be required before the market can resume its advance.

A reaction of modest proportions seems to be ahead, probably beginning the next week or so, comments Fred W. Lange of Dempsey-Tegeler & Co.

He says that heavy investment demand for quality issues has been replaced at least temporarily by demand for glamor issues by traders and speculators who have virtually dominated market action in recent sessions; the quality of the buying has declined significantly.

Production Drops

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—John Reineck, head of the Rusenburg Tobacco Research Institute, said Monday African tobacco production has dropped from 70 million to 45 million pounds because of a world-wide campaign against smoking.

Big Housing Project

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Final plans are being worked out to build 1,208 homes in Monterrey for workers. It's a $3.8-million project.

Air Traffic Pact

BONN (AP) — West Germany and Greece have signed an air traffic agreement.

It took about five days for the old Mississippi River packets to make the trip from New Orleans to St. Louis. Air coach flights of today make the same trip in under three and one-half hours.

TRUCK WRECK THAT KILLED 12 — This big farm truck tipped over on its side after a 100-foot plunge down an embankment Monday, killing 12 persons — seven of them Boy Scouts — and injuring 28 others. Some victims were pinned beneath truck which stalled on a hill, then rolled backwards wildly as brakes failed. The 47 persons on the truck, 35 of them Boy Scouts, were traveling through remote desert country 200 miles south of Salt Lake City en route to a Colorado River boat trip. (AP Photofax)

Lethargy Settles Over Cuba

EDITOR'S NOTE—This story is by a Canadian Press reporter who has paid two recent visits to Havana after being away for two years.

By JACK BEST

HAVANA (AP)—It may be just the season, or the cause may go deeper, but a thick cocoon of lethargy has settled over the lush green island of Cuba.

Persons with experience here say they have detected a strange inertia developing. Others use the term euphoria, with particular reference to the mood of followers of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Both Fidelistas and anti-Fidelistas betray a certain degree of rudderlessness.

Competent sources say Castro's supporters have never quite recovered from the traumatic effect of the Soviet Union's abrupt withdrawal of nuclear missiles last October under direct pressure from the United States.

Continuing economic troubles, including food shortages and gradual breakdown of private transportation through lack of parts for American-made automobiles, are also making inroads on the Fidelistas' morale.

Yet at the moment, their spirits appear measurably higher than those of opponents of the revolution. From the heights of ecstasy last fall, Castro's enemies have plunged to the depths of despair.

They had expected the U.S. victory in facing down the Soviet Union would mark the beginning of the end of the Castro regime. More than half a year later that regime is to all appearances as deeply entrenched as ever. And its opponents are despondent.

Some of the bitterness they previously felt for the regime has been turned in other directions—for instance, toward President Kennedy, whom many are calling a "Communist" because he put a leash on Cuban exile raiders operating against the island from U.S. territory.

"If things don't change within two years, I'm getting out," declares a Cuban who once bowed he would never join the ranks of refugees in the United States.

No 'Red' Bikes Here

BERLIN (AP)—The East German press has boasted about the "peoples own" bicycle factory, but a refugee racing cyclist claimed the bikes are made up of gears from Italy, chain from West Germany, brakes from France, and the frame from British steel.

Gift To Malaya

TOKYO (AP)—Japan is sending Malaya enough cholera vaccine to inoculate half a million persons, the Foreign Ministry reports. The shipment is a gift of the Japanese government.

Woman To Woman

United Press International

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI) — Even though feet get hurt and the voice hoarse, don't miss a chance to shepherd a batch of youngsters to the zoo, museum or some historical sight now that field trip fever's here.

It's educational for the children and makes you by turn hilarious and hysterical.

The teacher handed me a "flight bag" when I checked in as a volunteer chaperone for a recent trip from Saugatuck School here to the Bronx Zoo in New York City.

It was a brown bag lined with plastic.

"This is in case any of your charges get motion sickness in the bus," first grade teacher, Margaret Farcas, explained.

The flight bag—as the teacher dubbed it—went into a shopping bag which already contained nose wipers, four lunches, spare shoes, raincoats and slickers.

I took one look at the teacher and realized I wasn't dressed for the occasion. She had on sneakers—or were they track shoes?

Into the bus went the children with their chaperones, flight bags and nose wipers.

As the ordinary school bus sped down the Connecticut Turnpike, it was filled with extraordinary noises.

The sounds resembled the high-pitched scream of a jet warming up for takeoff, a bull in a glass factory and the crowd at Yankee Stadium in the last minute of a tie game.

The bus driver didn't seem to notice. When he was accused of having super nerves, he replied: "It doesn't take nerves, lady. You just gotta be numb."

First graders easily get misplaced. To overcome that horrible possibility, each child—and chaperone—was pinned to a name-card, ranging in size from four to 10 inches.

The larger cards gave one the impression that the child was pinned to the card instead of vice versa.

Some of the platoons of children marched through the zoo in double time, formation tight. Our group, rather rambling, was broken up into little batches of four and five children, each with a company commander — er, chaperone.

Our big worry: Keep from being cut off from the main group as we saw approaching a fast-stepping platoon from another school.

Wall Street Views

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market may be in for further consolidation or a moderate correction, according to talk on Wall Street.

However, many investment analysts still are confident that the market, as measured by the Dow Jones Industrial Average, is headed for new peaks this summer or fall.

The advisory service, Standard & Poor's Corp., say the stalemate reached in the market last week was the result of a probing action. It developed after the list had soared 11 per cent in three months and had come within striking distance of the record 1961 high.

The service is of the opinion that it wasn't surprising that resistance was encountered in this area and that some further backing and filling may be required before the market can resume its advance.

A reaction of modest proportions seems to be ahead, probably beginning the next week or so, comments Fred W. Lange of Dempsey-Tegeler & Co.

He says that heavy investment demand for quality issues has been replaced at least temporarily by demand for glamor issues by traders and speculators who have virtually dominated market action in recent sessions; the quality of the buying has declined significantly.

Production Drops

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—John Reineck, head of the Rusenburg Tobacco Research Institute, said Monday African tobacco production has dropped from 70 million to 45 million pounds because of a world-wide campaign against smoking.

Big Housing Project

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Final plans are being worked out to build 1,208 homes in Monterrey for workers. It's a $3.8-million project.

Air Traffic Pact

BONN (AP) — West Germany and Greece have signed an air traffic agreement.

It took about five days for the old Mississippi River packets to make the trip from New Orleans to St. Louis. Air coach flights of today make the same trip in under three and one-half hours.

City Referendum Cost Taxpayers $1.02 Per Vote

The recent referendum which rejected fluoridation of the city's water supply cost Cumberland taxpapers about $1.02 for each vote cast, a compilation of election costs by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery showed yesterday.

Total cost of the referendum was $5,559.71 and a total of 5,415 votes were cast, Ullery said. This averages out to slightly over $1.02 a vote.

The major cost was for salaries for poll workers and election officials. This item alone totaled $4,393.50.

Other expenses were the city's share of Social Security for election workers, $158.96; polling place rentals, $140; hauling expense (machines, books, etc.), $140; stationary, printing and supplies, $138.50; and postage, $5; and advertising $583.75.

The last primary and general election in 1962 cost the city $7,500 and the special referendum in 1957—to raise the tax limitation which was also defeated—cost approximately $4,779

Board Approves Specifications

Generalization of specifications for supplies and equipments to be purchased through competitive biding was agreed upon by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday.

The subject of advertising for bids came up during yesterday's meeting when the commissioners approved the specifications for a station wagon-ambulance.

This vehicle will be used by the three county institutions, the Home, Infirmary and Sylvan Retreat, for general use around the areas, and for hauling patients.

Commissioner Robert L. Ebert pointed out that the advertisement for this vehicle will read so that many types of auto manufacturers may be able to bid on it.

Bids on the station wagon will be opened by the board on June 25 at 9:30 a. m.

Ebert read from a recent memorandum from County Attorney Gorman E. Getty on the subject of bids having specifications that will fit only certain kinds of equipment.

He stated that "specifications for purchase of supplies and equipment must be general in their terms to permit competitive bidding. The purpose is not to spell out or to pick in advance equipment to be purchased."

Ebert stated that the board concurred in this feeling and would continue in this policy in order to attract and encourage as many bidders as possible.

Four bids for equipment submitted yesterday were ordered held up until the commissioners can decide on whether they are too specific.

Storm Affects Power Service

A series of thunderstorms brought much rain to this section Monday night but produced some interruptions to power.

There were scattered trouble spots on the Potomac Edison Company distribution system, some in the Baltimore Pike area, and others between Frostburg and Deep Creek Lake.

But the most serious interruption was in the Georges Creek communities between 6:52 p. m., when a strong blast of wind preceded a thunderstorm, and 7:50 p. m. when power was restored.

PE officials reported that crews patrolling the 34,500-volt transmission line that feeds the section found tree limbs over the wires between Lonaconing and Moscow.

Wills Creek ran muddy yesterday as a result of a heavy rain and electrical storm in the Hyndman area Monday night.

Disaster Aid Time Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Office of Emergency Planning said Tuesday it has approved a 30-day extension for the State of West Virginia to submit disaster-aid applications resulting from floods in the state last March.

Sens. Robert C. Byrd and Jennings Randolph said they were notified the new deadline would be July 11.

Gov. W. W. Barron and State Civil Defense Director William J. Matthews had asked for a 90-day extension to allow for clearing up a backlog of applications by cities and county government for federal aid in flood recovery work.

Board Approves Specifications

Generalization of specifications for supplies and equipments to be purchased through competitive biding was agreed upon by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday.

The subject of advertising for bids came up during yesterday's meeting when the commissioners approved the specifications for a station wagon-ambulance.

This vehicle will be used by the three county institutions, the Home, Infirmary and Sylvan Retreat, for general use around the areas, and for hauling patients.

Commissioner Robert L. Ebert pointed out that the advertisement for this vehicle will read so that many types of auto manufacturers may be able to bid on it.

Bids on the station wagon will be opened by the board on June 25 at 9:30 a. m.

Ebert read from a recent memorandum from County Attorney Gorman E. Getty on the subject of bids having specifications that will fit only certain kinds of equipment.

He stated that "specifications for purchase of supplies and equipment must be general in their terms to permit competitive bidding. The purpose is not to spell out or to pick in advance equipment to be purchased."

Ebert stated that the board concurred in this feeling and would continue in this policy in order to attract and encourage as many bidders as possible.

Four bids for equipment submitted yesterday were ordered held up until the commissioners can decide on whether they are too specific.

Storm Affects Power Service

A series of thunderstorms brought much rain to this section Monday night but produced some interruptions to power.

There were scattered trouble spots on the Potomac Edison Company distribution system, some in the Baltimore Pike area, and others between Frostburg and Deep Creek Lake.

But the most serious interruption was in the Georges Creek communities between 6:52 p. m., when a strong blast of wind preceded a thunderstorm, and 7:50 p. m. when power was restored.

PE officials reported that crews patrolling the 34,500-volt transmission line that feeds the section found tree limbs over the wires between Lonaconing and Moscow.

Wills Creek ran muddy yesterday as a result of a heavy rain and electrical storm in the Hyndman area Monday night.

'Superior' Rating Given Local Army Reserve Unit

A local Army Reserve unit has received a superior rating for performance of duties during its recent summer encampment at Erie Ordnance Depot, Port Clinton, Ohio.

Commended was the 265th Ordnance Company (Depot), which is commanded by Capt. Stanley L. Sliviak. Formerly a field supply unit, Capt. Sliviak said his outfit was redesigned as a depot company under a reorganization plan ordered by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara.

While in summer training, members of the 265th Company were instructed in the use of the latest types of data processing machines, the most modern packing and shipping materials, and newest methods of preparing supplies for shipment.

Capt. Sliviak said the Erie Depot is responsible for the supply of a 10-state area within the Continental Army, and also for the supply of many NATO installations.

Young men interested in completing their military service obligations with the Army Reserve unit can obtain information by calling 729-3440 or at the Reserve Training Center on U.S. Route 220 near Cresaptown.

Officers of the 265th Company, besides Capt. Sliviak, are Capt. Forrest L. Boggs, executive officer; Lt. Richard C. Poe, storage officer; Lt. Daniel T. Blackburn, stock control officer; CWO John C. Knepp, supply and mess officer.

City Asked To Review Water Plan

A local resident and apartment-owner asked the Mayor and Council Monday to review water charge ordinances and place apartment house users on a master meter plan such as that which LaVale enjoys.

Charles Paul Roeder, Piedmont Avenue apartment house owner, told council at a meeting in the office of Mayor Earl D. Chaney, that a minimum charge is currently placed against each of his apartments.

He cited two reasons for not believing this a fair practice. First, he said, a number of minimums are paid each quarter despite the fact that the minimum amount of water is sometimes not used; and second, overages sometime results because the meters are not read on the quarterly date they are supposed to be. The last time this happened, 17 days elapsed and as a result, his quarterly reading was over the minimum.

Roeder also pointed out the same situation exists as regards to sewage fees, noting 75 per cent of the water fee is added for sewage.

Roeder asked for a restudy of ordinances and said "I would rather pay for what is going through the meters even if the rates were raised, than I would to pay for something I am not receiving."

Council said it would look into the matter.

Roeder also protested noise in his apartment house water pipes caused by the pumps which operate automatically at the Piedmont water storage tank.

He described the noise as a "vibration" which has brought complaints from tenants and will make it difficult to re-rent apartments. The situation has been worsening, he said, and could be classed as a nuisance.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said he would check the noise.

Two Burglaries Are Reported

Two cases of weekend breaking and entering are being investigated by Frostburg City Police. Victimized by illegal entries were the Potomac Edison office on Broadway and Deluxe Cleaners on Mechanic Street.

Frostburg Chief of Police Donald Griffith said both establishments were broken into sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Peter Loar, building custodian, discovered the entry at Potomac Edison Sunday. Police said the cash drawers were ransacked in a futile attempt to find money. Apparently nothing was taken, they related.

Entry was gained, Chief Griffith said, by breaking a door window on the side with the intruder gaining access to the latch lock.

The cleaning establishment reported $10 was taken from a cash drawer. Entry there was gained by breaking a side window next to an adjoining residence.

The entry was discovered yesterday morning when the establishment opened for business, Chief Griffith said.

He described the noise as a "vibration" which has brought complaints from tenants and will make it difficult to re-rent apartments. The situation has been worsening, he said, and could be classed as a nuisance.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said he would check the noise.

Two Burglaries Are Reported

Two cases of weekend breaking and entering are being investigated by Frostburg City Police. Victimized by illegal entries were the Potomac Edison office on Broadway and Deluxe Cleaners on Mechanic Street.

Frostburg Chief of Police Donald Griffith said both establishments were broken into sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Peter Loar, building custodian, discovered the entry at Potomac Edison Sunday. Police said the cash drawers were ransacked in a futile attempt to find money. Apparently nothing was taken, they related.

Entry was gained, Chief Griffith said, by breaking a door window on the side with the intruder gaining access to the latch lock.

The cleaning establishment reported $10 was taken from a cash drawer. Entry there was gained by breaking a side window next to an adjoining residence.

The entry was discovered yesterday morning when the establishment opened for business, Chief Griffith said.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ten days ago my husband wrote his annual breezy, full-of-hot-air letter to his sister in Phoenix. He casually mentioned it would be nice if their daughter Ellie, age 18, could come for the summer and help in the flower shop.

Three days later we got an air-mail letter saying Ellie would love to and she'll be on the first bus following her graduation. Dick is flabbergasted. He says he never dreamed she'd take him up on it. Also, he isn't sure now he has a job for Ellie.

He never discussed this with me, although I am the one who would have to feed her, entertain her, chauffeur her and make sure she had a good time. Dick goes fishing every weekend and takes our sons. I must stay home with a 13-month-old toddler so my weekends aren't exactly vacations. And I'm 41 years old t'boot.

Dick says he hasn't the heart (he means guts) to rescind the offer. What shall I do about this mess?—CRISIS

DEAR CRISIS: Since Dick has not the heart (or the guts) to unwind the invitation then you must do it.

If this girl is not welcome, she'd feel it sooner or later. So you're damned if you do and damned if you don't. My advice is don't—and be damned.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has two sons by a former marriage. He gets the kids every summer for eight weeks. Please settle something for us in advance.

The boys are 9 and 11 years old. They are high-spirited and full of vitality, but they are obedient and I enjoy them thoroughly. The only point on which my husband I disagree involves the refrigerator. The boys are in and out of it all day long, helping themselves to cold drinks, fruit, snacks, whatever they see. At mealtime they pick at their food because they are not hungry.

I've told my husband I am opposed to this, but he says it is part of a happy childhood. His mother was very stingy about food and he and his brothers were punished if they were caught in the ice box. He made up his mind this would never happen to HIS children.

I suppose he does have a point, Ann, but so do I. Will you settle it?—SECOND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: There's a big difference between being stingy about food and allowing kids to eat all day long.

Set a snack time midway between lunch and supper and tell the boys they may help themselves. To allow children to eat continuously and ruin their appetites for a balanced meal does not make for a happy childhood, nor a healthy one either.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A shirt-tail cousin moved to this city several months ago. I wanted to befriend her so I gave her the names of my sitter, my laundress, my day lady, an upholsterer, a carpet cleaner, a seamstress, a yard man and so on.

I guess there is such a thing as being too good a friend because now when I want the services of these people they are busy. She has given their names to her neighbors and I am out of luck. She also has spoiled them by paying more than I did, which was a dirty trick. What do you think of this sort of "friend"?—S. G. K.

DEAR S. G. K.: Lincoln freed the slaves. You can't tie people up anymore and expect them to work for you alone unless you hire them full time.

The only solution is to call several weeks in advance and pay the going rate.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PLEASE REPEAT IT: O. K. Here it is: Brilliant people talk about ideas. Average people talk about things. Small people talk about other people.

Loan Official Admits Guilt In Conspiracy

John G. Persian, president of the Family Savings and Loan Association of Silver Spring, who eluded a State Police stake-out at the Family Savings office here in October 1961, has pleaded guilty to conspiring to obtain shareholders' savings under false pretenses.

Family Savings was placed in receivership October 27, 1961, and local shareholders have only received ten cents on a dollar back from their deposits.

Persian was arrested in October 1961 in Hagerstown, just hours after he left here.

Persian, under indictment on six counts of conspiracy and seven other charges, admitted guilt Monday on only one charge of conspiring with Sherman S. Cohen, counsel for Family Savings. Cohen has pleaded innocent to all seven charges against him.

Judge Ralph G. Shure of the Montgomery County Circuit Court agreed to continue Cohen's trial until July 15 after receiving Persian's plea.

State's Attorney Leonard T. Kardy said the conspiracy charge is "the meat of the case" against Persian. He said the other indictments against Persian will be held in abeyance pending disposition of the charge to which he admitted guilt.

Shure set no date for sentencing. Conviction on a conspiracy charge carries a prison term of from 2 to 10 years. Persian remained free on $10,000 bond pending sentence.

Camp Cliffside Starts Summer Program July 6

Camp Cliffside will be operated this summer at its location on the South Branch of the Potomac River near Springfield.

James Lemmert, Hagerstown, announced boys camp will start Saturday, July 6, just one week later than originally scheduled by William H. "Uncle Bill" Lewis, who died suddenly last Wednesday.

Mr. Lewis had been director of the camp since its start in 1944. Prior to that he had spent 30 years as director of Cumberland Y Camp at the same location. Until Monday, there had been some question of whether Cliffside would be operated.

Lemmert, who has been going to the camp for 25 years since he was six years of age, said boys camp will be for three weeks instead of four weeks.

Girls camp will start on July 28 with a staff to be announced later.

Lemmert will be director during the boys' session assisted by Dr. Thomas F. Lewis, local surgeon who also has spent many years at the camp as a camper, leader and staff member.

Both Lemmert and Dr. Lewis are nephews of Mr. Lewis. Dr. Lewis will be available for medical assistance.

The new director, who has been assistant director the past five years, is in the pupil personnel department of the Washington County Board of Education.

He said the camp's usual full program will be offered. Another assistant will be his brother, Howard Lemmert, Frostburg State Teachers College graduate who is a teacher.

Applications for both boys and girls' camps should be addressed to James Lemmert, 101 West Main Street, Frostburg.

W. Va. Boys Post Bond In Gun Theft

Two Springfield, W. Va. teenagers have been charged with the theft of $2,000 worth of antique guns from the cabin of Harry Keplinger, Keyser, located on the River Road, south of Romney.

West Virginia State Police said the pair, Frank Cosner and Clarence Edward Parsons, both 19 years of age, have been released under $1,000 bond each pending action of the next term of grand jury in Hampshire County.

Police said Cosner was arrested and charged late Saturday night, while Parsons was apprehended Monday. They were taken before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell in Romney for the purpose of setting bond.

The case first developed last week when the State Police were notified by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe that while working near Springfield he had found a number of guns.

Sgt. Brook L. Burner and Constable Charles Weese of Romney went to the scene and found about $1,200 worth of the valuable guns. Authorities said more than $2,000 worth of guns were stolen.

Police said following the arrest of Cosner and Parsons, additional guns and an outboard motor were recovered.

Police said the youths entered Keplinger's cabin, which is located near the Hampshire Park, by breaking a window in a door and reaching inside and tripping the door lock.

Police said yesterday several small items stolen in the "raid" are still missing.

Flag Ceremony Scheduled By B.P.O. Lodge

Display of the Stars and Stripes Friday, Flag Day, is urged by Cumberland Lodge 63, B.P.O. Elks, which will present a Flag to the Cumberland Kiwanis Club Sunshine Camp, MacDonald Terrace, in a public ceremony that day at 2 p.m.

Co-chairman of the Elks-sponsored observance are John E. Mertens and J. Douglas Heron, according to John E. Byrd Jr., exalted ruler.

The Flag will be presented to Paul Barnett, president of the Kiwanis Club.

Participating in the ceremonies will be chair officers of the lodge along with George A. Caswell, a past exalted ruler, who will give the history of the Flag; and Attorney William Walsh who will present the eulogy. Walsh is a member of Cumberland Lodge.

St. Mary's Boy Scout Troop 8 with Donald H. Smith, Scoutmaster, and Harold Lloyd, assistant Scoutmaster, and Herman J. Koegel, camp director, will take part in the presentation ceremony, Mertens and Heron said.

Flag Day is observed annually by the Order of Elks under the supervision of the Americanism Committee of the Grand Lodge.

It was also announced that Elks lodges will cooperate in a nationwide celebration of the Fourth of July when the simultaneous ringing of bells in communities from Maine to Alaska will herald the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence 187 years ago.

Group Protests Street Work

The Mayor and Council unanimously passed an ordinance for the resurfacing of Greene Street from Baltimore Street to Johnson Street after being told by the city engineer there was no agreement concerning state maintenance of Greene Street as claimed by property owners.

Morris Baron appeared before council representing several Greene Street property owners who claimed the area to be a state route and that the last two times it was improved, the state paid. Since then, Baron said, it has been considered a state route.

Some time ago, Baron said residents requested a traffic light at Johnson and Greene Streets but were told that was a state matter to decide. Everybody, he said, apparently considers Greene Street a state route.

John Lippold, another member of the delegation, agreed with Baron.

However, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said he knew of no agreement with the state on Greene Street, but, he said, there is one concerning Henderson Avenue. Greene Street is credited as one maintained by the city and is included in gas mileage tax sharing under that setup, he added.

Eggplant is said to be a native of southern Asia, where it has been cultivated since remote antiquity.

The first heat of steel was made in 1864 at Wyandotte, Mich.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ten days ago my husband wrote his annual breezy, full-of-hot-air letter to his sister in Phoenix. He casually mentioned it would be nice if their daughter Ellie, age 18, could come for the summer and help in the flower shop.

Three days later we got an air-mail letter saying Ellie would love to and she'll be on the first bus following her graduation. Dick is flabbergasted. He says he never dreamed she'd take him up on it. Also, he isn't sure now he has a job for Ellie.

He never discussed this with me, although I am the one who would have to feed her, entertain her, chauffeur her and make sure she had a good time. Dick goes fishing every weekend and takes our sons. I must stay home with a 13-month-old toddler so my weekends aren't exactly vacations. And I'm 41 years old t'boot.

Dick says he hasn't the heart (he means guts) to rescind the offer. What shall I do about this mess?—CRISIS

DEAR CRISIS: Since Dick has not the heart (or the guts) to unwind the invitation then you must do it.

If this girl is not welcome, she'd feel it sooner or later. So you're damned if you do and damned if you don't. My advice is don't—and be damned.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has two sons by a former marriage. He gets the kids every summer for eight weeks. Please settle something for us in advance.

The boys are 9 and 11 years old. They are high-spirited and full of vitality, but they are obedient and I enjoy them thoroughly. The only point on which my husband I disagree involves the refrigerator. The boys are in and out of it all day long, helping themselves to cold drinks, fruit, snacks, whatever they see. At mealtime they pick at their food because they are not hungry.

I've told my husband I am opposed to this, but he says it is part of a happy childhood. His mother was very stingy about food and he and his brothers were punished if they were caught in the ice box. He made up his mind this would never happen to HIS children.

I suppose he does have a point, Ann, but so do I. Will you settle it?—SECOND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: There's a big difference between being stingy about food and allowing kids to eat all day long.

Set a snack time midway between lunch and supper and tell the boys they may help themselves. To allow children to eat continuously and ruin their appetites for a balanced meal does not make for a happy childhood, nor a healthy one either.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A shirt-tail cousin moved to this city several months ago. I wanted to befriend her so I gave her the names of my sitter, my laundress, my day lady, an upholsterer, a carpet cleaner, a seamstress, a yard man and so on.

I guess there is such a thing as being too good a friend because now when I want the services of these people they are busy. She has given their names to her neighbors and I am out of luck. She also has spoiled them by paying more than I did, which was a dirty trick. What do you think of this sort of "friend"?—S. G. K.

DEAR S. G. K.: Lincoln freed the slaves. You can't tie people up anymore and expect them to work for you alone unless you hire them full time.

The only solution is to call several weeks in advance and pay the going rate.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PLEASE REPEAT IT: O. K. Here it is: Brilliant people talk about ideas. Average people talk about things. Small people talk about other people.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Loan Official Admits Guilt In Conspiracy

John G. Persian, president of the Family Savings and Loan Association of Silver Spring, who eluded a State Police stake-out at the Family Savings office here in October 1961, has pleaded guilty to conspiring to obtain shareholders' savings under false pretenses.

Family Savings was placed in receivership October 27, 1961, and local shareholders have only received ten cents on a dollar back from their deposits.

Persian was arrested in October 1961 in Hagerstown, just hours after he left here.

Persian, under indictment on six counts of conspiracy and seven other charges, admitted guilt Monday on only one charge of conspiring with Sherman S. Cohen, counsel for Family Savings. Cohen has pleaded innocent to all seven charges against him.

Judge Ralph G. Shure of the Montgomery County Circuit Court agreed to continue Cohen's trial until July 15 after receiving Persian's plea.

State's Attorney Leonard T. Kardy said the conspiracy charge is "the meat of the case" against Persian. He said the other indictments against Persian will be held in abeyance pending disposition of the charge to which he admitted guilt.

Shure set no date for sentencing. Conviction on a conspiracy charge carries a prison term of from 2 to 10 years. Persian remained free on $10,000 bond pending sentence.

Camp Cliffside Starts Summer Program July 6

Camp Cliffside will be operated this summer at its location on the South Branch of the Potomac River near Springfield.

James Lemmert, Hagerstown, announced boys camp will start Saturday, July 6, just one week later than originally scheduled by William H. "Uncle Bill" Lewis, who died suddenly last Wednesday.

Mr. Lewis had been director of the camp since its start in 1944. Prior to that he had spent 30 years as director of Cumberland Y Camp at the same location. Until Monday, there had been some question of whether Cliffside would be operated.

Lemmert, who has been going to the camp for 25 years since he was six years of age, said boys camp will be for three weeks instead of four weeks.

Girls camp will start on July 28 with a staff to be announced later.

Lemmert will be director during the boys' session assisted by Dr. Thomas F. Lewis, local surgeon who also has spent many years at the camp as a camper, leader and staff member.

Both Lemmert and Dr. Lewis are nephews of Mr. Lewis. Dr. Lewis will be available for medical assistance.

The new director, who has been assistant director the past five years, is in the pupil personnel department of the Washington County Board of Education.

He said the camp's usual full program will be offered. Another assistant will be his brother, Howard Lemmert, Frostburg State Teachers College graduate who is a teacher.

Applications for both boys and girls' camps should be addressed to James Lemmert, 101 West Main Street, Frostburg.

W. Va. Boys Post Bond In Gun Theft

Two Springfield, W. Va. teenagers have been charged with the theft of $2,000 worth of antique guns from the cabin of Harry Keplinger, Keyser, located on the River Road, south of Romney.

West Virginia State Police said the pair, Frank Cosner and Clarence Edward Parsons, both 19 years of age, have been released under $1,000 bond each pending action of the next term of grand jury in Hampshire County.

Police said Cosner was arrested and charged late Saturday night, while Parsons was apprehended Monday. They were taken before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell in Romney for the purpose of setting bond.

The case first developed last week when the State Police were notified by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe that while working near Springfield he had found a number of guns.

Sgt. Brook L. Burner and Constable Charles Weese of Romney went to the scene and found about $1,200 worth of the valuable guns. Authorities said more than $2,000 worth of guns were stolen.

Police said following the arrest of Cosner and Parsons, additional guns and an outboard motor were recovered.

Police said the youths entered Keplinger's cabin, which is located near the Hampshire Park, by breaking a window in a door and reaching inside and tripping the door lock.

Police said yesterday several small items stolen in the "raid" are still missing.

Flag Ceremony Scheduled By B.P.O. Lodge

Display of the Stars and Stripes Friday, Flag Day, is urged by Cumberland Lodge 63, B.P.O. Elks, which will present a Flag to the Cumberland Kiwanis Club Sunshine Camp, MacDonald Terrace, in a public ceremony that day at 2 p.m.

Co-chairman of the Elks-sponsored observance are John E. Mertens and J. Douglas Heron, according to John E. Byrd Jr., exalted ruler.

The Flag will be presented to Paul Barnett, president of the Kiwanis Club.

Participating in the ceremonies will be chair officers of the lodge along with George A. Caswell, a past exalted ruler, who will give the history of the Flag; and Attorney William Walsh who will present the eulogy. Walsh is a member of Cumberland Lodge.

St. Mary's Boy Scout Troop 8 with Donald H. Smith, Scoutmaster, and Harold Lloyd, assistant Scoutmaster, and Herman J. Koegel, camp director, will take part in the presentation ceremony, Mertens and Heron said.

Flag Day is observed annually by the Order of Elks under the supervision of the Americanism Committee of the Grand Lodge.

It was also announced that Elks lodges will cooperate in a nationwide celebration of the Fourth of July when the simultaneous ringing of bells in communities from Maine to Alaska will herald the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence 187 years ago.

Group Protests Street Work

The Mayor and Council unanimously passed an ordinance for the resurfacing of Greene Street from Baltimore Street to Johnson Street after being told by the city engineer there was no agreement concerning state maintenance of Greene Street as claimed by property owners.

Morris Baron appeared before council representing several Greene Street property owners who claimed the area to be a state route and that the last two times it was improved, the state paid. Since then, Baron said, it has been considered a state route.

Some time ago, Baron said residents requested a traffic light at Johnson and Greene Streets but were told that was a state matter to decide. Everybody, he said, apparently considers Greene Street a state route.

John Lippold, another member of the delegation, agreed with Baron.

However, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said he knew of no agreement with the state on Greene Street, but, he said, there is one concerning Henderson Avenue. Greene Street is credited as one maintained by the city and is included in gas mileage tax sharing under that setup, he added.

Eggplant is said to be a native of southern Asia, where it has been cultivated since remote antiquity.

The first heat of steel was made in 1864 at Wyandotte, Mich.

Civil Trial Will Enter Second Day

An involved damage suit in which the drivers of three vehicles are defendants will move into its second day at 9:15 a. m. today in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Leo J. Barry of Frostburg, the plaintiff, has filed suit against Lester Kemerer, Salisbury, Pa.; Michael Shepard, Covington, Va., and Eleanor Mae Elliott, Hoffman.

Mr. Barry was a passenger in the automobile driven by Mr. Kemerer, which actually was involved in two different collisions on snow-covered U.S. Route 40 at Eckhart about 1 a. m. March 22, 1961.

Witnesses yesterday said that Mr. Kemerer was attempting to pass the Elliott woman's car as both were westbound on U.S. Route 40. Passengers in Mr. Kemerer's car said the woman suddenly made a left turn onto old Route 40 at Eckhart without either a hand signal or directional signal.

There was little damage in this accident, but while both vehicles were stopped partially in the eastbound lane of Route 40, Mr. Shepard, traveling east, struck the Elliott car and forced it into the Kemerer vehicle.

Six witnesses testified during the first day of the trial. They included Tfc. T. A. Ruppert, Mr. Barry, Dr. W. R. Wolverton, Miss Jean Skelly, a medical librarian at Miners Hospital; Dale Meese, a fellow passenger in the Kemerer car, and Roy W. Hare, another Kemerer passenger, both of Salisbury, Pa.

Dr. Wolverton, who began his testimony in the morning, was excused until mid-afternoon so that he could address the sixth-grade graduation class at Gephart School.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey is presiding at the trial. Julian G. Patrick of Westernport is foreman of the jury of 10 men and two women.

Seven attorneys are involved in the case. Representing the plaintiff are Jack I. Mullen and Miller Bowen. Mr. Kemerer is represented by Stephen R. Pagenhardt of Oakland. Mrs. Elliott is represented by Stephen R. Pagenhardt of Oakland. Mrs. Elliott is represented by Hugh A. McMullen and Thomas N. Berry. Mr. Shepard is represented by William Walsh and Norman P. Ramsey of Baltimore.

State To Air Romney School Bid Criticism

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education is expected to discuss at a meeting here June 17 criticism of its decision recently awarding a $526,320 contract for new construction and renovation at the Romney School for the Blind.

The State Board of Public Works released money for the work but questioned the wisdom of action by the Board of Education accepting a bid modified by telegram on the day of the bid opening for part of the work.

The $103,800 bid by the Stuart McMunn Co., Clarksburg, was accepted by telegram for plumbing, heating and ventilation work.

Board of Education secretary H. K. Baer told the BPW there was nothing illegal about accepting Munn's bid after the BPW noted that the State Attorney General had advised Baer to adopt "a hard and fast" rule of "no irregularities" in public bidding.

Also during the June meeting, the board will receive recommendations from the Council of State College and University Presidents.

Larceny, Vandalism Cases Reported

City police were notified Monday that someone took a wallet from the stockroom of a local store.

The complaint was received from Sue Foote, LaVale, who said some money, driver's license, and cards were in the blue wallet. A description of a suspect who was seen in the stock room was given to police.

In a vandalism case reported to local police, Mrs. Theodore Clark of 503 Fort Avenue said that a mirror was broken off her car which was parked near the Clark home.

State Highway, Education Plans Being Studied

ANNAPOLIS (AP) State needs in highways and education were discussed Tuesday by Gov. Tawes and Senate President William S. James with a view toward developing special programs for the 1964 legislature.

James, chairman of the between-sessions Legislative Council, called on the governor to present legislators views on both problems, which he said are of primary importance.

He said Tawes plans to discuss them with advisors and state officials and make known his position at a later date.

A new state highway program is to be presented at the legislature's 30-day session convening next February. It will require extra revenue to finance.

At a meeting of legislators last week, legislative leaders decided that a special roads study would be desirable this year so legislators will be better prepared to tackle the problems.

It is believed that James discussed with the governor the possibility of legislative leaders working with the State Roads Commission in preparing the program. The senate president said only that mechanics for the study are to be worked out later.

Are Any Taxes Temporary?

What for Congress has become an annual routine and for the nation's taxpayers a costly nuisance has been completed by the House Ways and Means Committee. Responding to the administration's request, the committee approved for another year the series of taxes imposed "temporarily" to help finance the Korean War.

If the extension is adopted by Congress as expected, consumers will continue to pay extra excise levies on cigarettes, telephone service, alcoholic beverages, automobiles and automotive parts and accessories. The 52 per cent tax rate on corporation earnings also would be continued, subject to if-and-when changes in the general tax-cutting bill pending before the committee.

Since the general tax reductions proposed by President Kennedy embrace relief for corporations, the committee could have saved itself some work merely by allowing the current 52 per cent rate to revert to 47 per cent automatically. But perhaps it would be impolitic at this point to give corporations a reduction ahead of individuals.

The "temporary" war-level taxes, which produce about $4 billion in annual revenue, were to have been decreased or dropped in 1954. Instead they have been extended on a year-to-year basis. Which goes to show that "temporary" taxes, whether of federal, state or local origin, get to be an unbreakable habit.

Tree Farmers

In beating the bushes for more tax money to kick down the thousand-and-one open drains that it feeds, the U.S. Treasury continues to lobby the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee to kill the so-called special tax treatment accorded to companies that live by consuming natural assets. These companies include mining concerns, corporations that locate and develop oil wells, and the big timber companies.

The case for the oil depletion allowance is well-known: it recognizes that a company that lives by selling itself off bit-by-bit must be permitted an extra margin of profit if it is to replenish itself. The untaxed depletion allowance is designed to allow for the financing of at least enough new oil exploration to let a company stay even on its capital assets.

This is fair enough, for the corporation profits tax is not supposed to function as a capital levy.

The case for taxing timber sales on a capital gains basis is a little more difficult to sustain. There is a certain logic to the argument that timber is a crop, like wheat or tomatoes, a matter of human input as well as output. The money gained by transforming input into output by the investment of labor and capital and the use of land normally is considered to represent income, not capital. But this argument as applied to trees applies only the second time round, not the first. The original tree crops were planted by nature, or God, not by human labor; hence they should be considered a natural capital asset just as much as is gold ore in a mine or oil in the earth.

However, even if trees are to be regarded as something humanly replaceable, like tomato plants or wheat stalks, there is still a reason for giving them special tax treatment. Ever since the expansive new tribe of "tree farmers" was conjured into existence by treating timber sales on a capital gains basis, some wonderful things have been happening in certain regions of the United States.

By constantly replanting slashed timber lands, the new breed of tree farmers helps restore the landscape for tourists, provides recreation areas for campers, and aids the local conservation agencies in the continual fight to keep water in the soil.

The incidental benefits of tree farming to the general public was brought home to this columnist last winter during several ski expeditions to northern New England. Timber companies have been leasing long-term use-rights to mountain slopes for ski area developments. Meanwhile, the forests on either side of ski runs and ski tows are maintained as a scenic delight while the tree farmers are waiting for their "crops" to grow. Thus northern New England is protected as a wilderness paradise for visiting city people without the necessity of any federal outlays for new national parks.

And the wild state of nature is preserved without having to jam any controversial "wilderness bill" through Congress.

True enough, the taxpayer who does not care for skiing or for enjoying the autumn foliage on a New Hampshire or a Vermont hillside may have logical reason to object to giving a tree farmer a tax advantage that a wheat farmer doesn't have. But there is no logic to our tax policy anyway: the whole tax program is an issue of special instances and exceptions. If the wheat farmer is taxed on his wheat profits, he gets a price support that assures him of his profit in the first place.

Bachelors and childless couples are taxed to pay for schools; non-golfers contribute to the support of municipal golf links; the middle-income man's dollar is considered less necessary to him than the poor man's dollar is to the poor man, even though the latter may have marginal dollars to spend at the pari-mutuel betting window. Tax equity, under the "progressive" system, is a chimera, and we might as well stop looking for it.

This being the case, every tax exemption has to be considered pragmatically, on the basis of social policy. For example, if it is deemed socially desirable to balance our payments abroad, we might, following Eliot Janeway's proposal, let entertainers like Danny Kaye have a special tax exemption on dollars earned in London night clubs. And if we want trees to grow on our hills, we can continue to give the tree farmer a break.

Pentagon Suppresses Alarming U-2 File On Atmospheric Radioactivity

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Probably the most important piece of managed news in government files today is a secret report which came from sending a U-2 spy plane into the upper atmosphere.

It was sent, not to spy over Russia, but to ascertain the amount of radioactivity remaining from the last Soviet-U.S. nuclear tests. The results were shocking. It was found that three times as much dangerous radioactivity remains in the upper atmosphere as anticipated.

This is now in the process of falling to the earth.

When the National Advisory Committee on Radiation asked for a copy of this report on May 21, it was refused. The report remains top secret.

Obviously no security is involved in this report. The presence of radioactivity in the upper atmosphere is not going to reveal any secrets to the Russians. They helped put some of it there, and its presence is no military secret. Since it has to come down, the American public is bound to know about it. Therefore, the facts should be published so as to give state health officials an opportunity to prepare for it.

Despite this, the report remains surpressed. This coincides with Pentagon moves to keep the public uniformed regarding nuclear fallout dangers, apparently so there will be less protest when tests are resumed. This is one reason Congressmen Chet Holifield D-Calif., and Mel Price D-Ill., were unable to get the Federal Radiation Council to promise any guidelines for radioactive danger during Congressional hearings last week. The earliest Dr. Paul Tompkins would promise any federal standards was one year hence.

Pentagon Sets Policy

Inside fact in the confusion and news suppression over radioactive fallout is that the Kennedy administration operates a strong Pentagon and a weak Department of Health Education and Welfare, and no firm action is being taken by Kennedy's science adviser, Jerry Wiesner.

Last August when radioactive fallout was so bad in parts of the West the farmers in Utah and Minnesota took their cows off pasturage, the military advisers on radioactivity got worried. They didn't want the public to get alarmed.

Secretary of HEW Anthony Celebrezze went on the air to calm the nation.

Celebrezze had only been in office a short time, was not fully familiar with either radioactive dangers or the fact that his Public Health Service has been vacilating in the face of Pentagon pressure.

Paradoxically Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara has been one of the most forthright members of the Kennedy administration in being concerned about nuclear testing but doesn't always control his generals.

Dairy farmers have also been most cooperative and patriotic regarding nuclear fallout, sometimes at considerable expense. They have taken their cows off green pasture when asked to do so, and fed hay and stored silage, from which there is no danger.

Fortunately, Iodine 131, the chief risk for the thyroids of young children, evaporates quickly. In eight days one-half of its strength is gone, and in sixteen days 75 per cent. In 36 days, 94 per cent of its strength is gone and in two months all has evaporated. Thus farmers can save green pasturage for a late hay harvest, meanwhile using stored hay.

However, neither the farmers nor state authorities can cooperate if they don't know what the danger guidelines are and if they don't know the facts in the suppressed U-2 report on radioactivity.

NOTE — Worry over the increasing danger of nuclear fallout was one factor behind President Kennedy's announcement that the United States would hold no further nuclear tests in the atmosphere "so long as other states do not do so."

Most Congressmen don't know it, but the Congressional Page Corps is the last stronghold of segregation on Capitol Hill. Negroes are still excluded, despite the fact that the Supreme Court, just across the Capitol Plaza, lifted the color line against Negroe pages some years ago.

Girls are also barred from the ranks of the page boys who carry messages, books and glasses of water for Senate and House members. You must be male, white, and between 14 and 18 years of age to belong to this elite corps. But mostly you must be male and white. Rep. Barratt O'Hara of Chicago was bluntly reminded of this when he tried to name a Negro youth to the page roll not long ago.

Few of the pages themselves have any racial prejudices. They feel it would be better to lift the color bar (rather than the sex distinction) as a starter. Bill Bradley of Ware, Mass., 15-year-old page appointee of Speaker John McCormack, summed up the general feeling this way:

"We just carry out orders and try to do a good job. Of course, we are not against Negro pages. As for girls, there is a practical objection. Even if their parents were agreeable, girls would find this work too tough.

"Pages have to be up every morning at 6:30 for school and stay on the job until 5 or 6 p.m., sometimes later. I occasionally have to run 40 errands a day for House members. That might be hard for a girl."

There are 24 pages in the Senate, 50 in the House. The great majority of them are political patronage employes of the party controlling Congress. Each is paid $380 a month, a whopping salary for the 14-18 age group.

A few former pages have been elected to Congress, including Rep. John Dingell of Michigan. But Dingell doesn't recommend his own page-boy antics as a pattern for future statesmanship. He and other pages used to startle tourists by putting cigerettes in the mouths of stone figures in Statuary Hall.

Rockefeller And The 'American Home' Issue

By Joseph Alsop

AVON, Conn.

Connecticut used to be, and still ought to be, a strong center of support for the Presidential ambitions of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

This is his neighbor state, and in all the Republican contests since 1932, the Connecticut delegation has always supported the more progressive Presidential aspirant. Furthermore, the New York Governor already had Connecticut pretty well lined up—until his recent remarriage.

In that earlier time, one man who was virtually certain to be a key Rockefeller delegate to the Republican Convention was former Sen. Prescott Bush, whose standing in the state has been in no way diminished by his voluntary retirement from active politics.

Consider, therefore, what has now happened. Sen. Bush has just made the commencement speech at Rosemary Hall, a girls' school in Greenwich, Conn. Although he is the very opposite of a Goldwater Republican, the Senator chose this occasion for the plainest speaking about Gov. Rockefeller that has yet been heard from any quarter.

"Have we," he inquired, "come to the point in our life as a great nation where the Governor of a great state — one who perhaps aspires to the nomination for President — can desert a good wife, mother of his grown children, divorce her, then persuade a young mother of four youngsters to abandon her husband and . . . children and marry the Governor?

"Have we come to the point where one of the two great political parties will confer upon such a one its highest honor and greatest responsibility? . . . (Are Americans) ready to say 'phooey' to the sancity of the American home and the American family? . . . I venture to hope not?"

Possibly because this kind of language is so startling, at least when used by a politician rather than a preacher, almost no newspaper in Connecticut or elsewhere gave the Bush speech a big play. Yet Sen. Bush was not doing mere moral turn for a special occasion, such as a girls' school graduation.

After the speech, he stated for quotation that Gov. Rockefeller should now "publicly withdraw" from the Presidential race. In the same breath, he added what was already well known, that he had previously favored the Governor's nomination.

Politics being politics, the fact that the Bush speech did not receive wide current publicity is of no great significance. One can all but hear the supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and other Republican hopefuls gloatingly give their printing orders for vast future mailings of the Senators' remarks to every person who may conceivably influence a single Republican delegate. When something of this sort has been said, it can never be un-said.

All in all, without entering into the moral pros and cons, the Bush speech is a major political phenomenon. With a kind of dire finality, it indicates that Gov. Rockefeller's remarriage is an even bigger political handicap than most people have supposed, or at least have been willing to say. On this point, there is additional significant evidence.

In brief, Republican leaders here were among the first to be telephoned by New York National Committeeman George Hineman when the able Hineman passed the word that the Governor was indeed going to remarry, and begged all Rockefeller friends to stand fast nonetheless. Yet the former Rockefeller support in Connecticut is now all over the lot, to put it very mildly indeed.

The plain truth is that, as a Presidential aspirant, Gov. Rockefeller now looks early as dead as the proverbial smelt—unless some great, unforseen, reviving act brings him back like Lazarus from the tomb. Obviously, he will seek to try such an act.

Probably his speechwriters are already studying the classic utterance which was largely written by Winston Churchill for the Duke of Windsor. One can imagine making what might be called a reverse-adaptation of the Windsor abdication speech for Gov. Rockefeller's case.

An effort of that sort that would be effective obviously cannot be ruled out. Gov. Rockefeller is a man of immense ability and energy. He has the only serious political organization in the field in the whole Republican Party. If anyone can make a comeback, he ought to be able to make a comeback.

Yet making a comeback certainly will not be easy. The greatest single weakness of the Governor's position may be defined as the absence of a Republican Hubert Humphrey. In 1960, President Kennedy's greatest piece of luck (although he did not think so at the time) was Sen. Humphrey's eagerness to enter primaries, in which President Kennedy, then proved his own vote-getting powers.

In the present instance, none of the other Republican Presidential hopefuls, declared or possible, has the smallest intention of entering a primary. It will not do Gov. Rockefeller much good to run in New Hampshire, for instance, against the empty air. Hence it will be interesting to see how the Governor handles his problem.

Inside Washington

ROCKEFELLER'S REMARRIAGE—New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's marriage to the former Mrs. Margaretta (Happy) Murphy is playing havoc with the 1964 GOP presidential sweepstakes.

Until rumors of the romance broke into print on disclosure of Mrs. Murphy's divorce, Rockefeller was considered an odds-on favorite to capture the top spot on the Republican national ticket. Now, following their marriage, politicians aren't so certain.

Rockefeller's popularity showed signs of slippage even before his personal life was injected into political discussions. Polls show that such candidate potentials as Sen. Barry Goldwater and Govs. George Romney (Michigan) and William W. Scranton (Pennsylvania) were picking up popularity at Rockefeller's expense.

Some political observers now express serious doubts that Rocky will be able to muster enough support at the 1964 GOP political convention to capture the nomination.

If the polls are any reflection of GOP thinking, the most likely candidate now seems to be Goldwater, the Senate's and the country's most outspoken conservative. Goldwater was the personal favorite of the 1960 convention that nominated Richard M. Nixon. He fought firmly against being placed on the second spot on the ballot. There's little doubt that if that convention had voted its heart instead of its head, Goldwater would have won.

This, in fact, is the root of the problem. The GOP "pros" are more conservative than their rank-and-file following and have shown remarkable restraint in selecting presidential candidates with appeal to the broad mass, rather than to the conservative minority of the party. To select Goldwater, in the opinion of many political observers, would be to forfeit the 1964 presidential race to John F. Kennedy.

However, Rockefeller's personal life figures to cost him many votes in the minds of impartial political observers. His remarriage could leave the GOP without a potentially winning presidential prospect.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Lilly is a difficult study. She died last week in a southwestern town and a friend sent the obituary notice. She was 28, unmarried, and her next of kin was her beloved mother. Her only kin. One of the kinder men in the county said it was too bad that Lilly didn't die at birth.

At the age of 16, Lilly was a tall redhead with a shoulder-length coiffure and more curves than the Sante Fe at Raton Pass. She seemed to start broad and deep at the shoulders and taper down to nothing at the ankles, below which hung a pair of large feet. She was a sweet, shy child who stared deep into the eyes of the high school teachers, especially those who wore trousers.

One day Lilly's mother made a visit to the high school principal. Two days later, the physical education teacher resigned and disappeared. Why, I don't know. I do know that Lilly lived alone with her mother on the second floor of an old house and Lilly's mother preached a monotonous litany: "All men are no good. Grab what you can and run."

Momma was embittered because she had had two husbands and had lost both because they had trapped her playing profitable games with their friends. She never forgave them for catching her dead-to-rights. Since then, she had worked in the courthouse by day and the taverns at night.

Lilly quit school after the physical ed teacher disappeared. She felt that she was ready for bigger problems than math. She could stare into a hosiery store window and see passing men come to a stop behind her. She watched them study her. It gave her a feeling of power; the confidence of a hunter staring down the barrel of a gun at a transfixed buck.

She took a job in a cannery and, the first week, took dead aim at the middle-aged man who owned the place. She fixed those big brown innocent eyes on him and, when she caught him looking back, she lowered her eyes to her work. Within a month, she was his secretary, although her schoolmates thought it odd that Lilly had never studied stenography or typing.

As I said, she is a difficult study. There are big blank spaces in Lilly's short biography. At the age of eighteen, she bought her mother a little house with a $5,000 down payment. A few months later, the owner of the cannery tried to commit suicide. The county court held sanity hearings, and the man was placed in an institution.

Lilly attended the hearings, as a spectator. Her wide-eyed innocence in the front row attracted one of the lawyers. His first name was Henry and he was a portly man marked as a comer in the Republican Party. He was sure to be a Supreme Court judge and he might, in time, become governor of the state.

Henry had a wife who was pretty, and four growing daughters. When the hearings were over, he passed Lilly in the court corridor, stared at the remarkable figure and red hair, and asked if she had understood the issues. Lilly said she didn't, but she would appreciate it if someone explained them to her.

She was a little over 19 when she demanded that Henry make a choice between his family and her. He made it. It wasn't easy, but he chose Lilly. The whole county was shocked when the separation and divorce became public property. Then Lilly refused to marry him.

They remained good friends, and Henry spent more and more time at Lilly's house than anywhere else, except the saloons. Lilly was 21 when Henry was arrested for stealing $11,000 from a trust fund. The prosecutor was his classmate, Sal. Sal begged him to plead guilty and get a fine and suspended sentence.

Lilly advised Henry to fight the case. He did. The judge who sent him away for 18 months almost wept. Henry was through, disbarred, finished. Lilly sat at dinner with her mother that night and said: "He was nice, but he had no character." Her mother grunted. She had taught her daughter that all men are no good, and the child was learning.

Lilly went to see the prosecutor, to ask if anything could be done to shorten the sentence. He thought that her loyalty was touching. "Forget Henry," Sal said. "He's a goner." So was Sal. He was unmarried, and he had a good job with a lot of local power.

The romance—to use the word loosely—lasted five years. It was the Federal Government which finally tapped Sal on the shoulder. By this time, Lilly had a mink coat and a big car. She and her mother had a maid and a bank account. Sal forgot to tell the truth in four income tax returns.

He was still in prison when the final curtain came down on Lilly The cannery owner was still in an institution. Henry was working in a supermarket. Lilly was found dead in bed, with an empty bottle of sedatives under the pillow.

The friend who wrote me was the coroner. "I did the autopsy," he wrote. "It wasn't really necessary because cause of death was obvious. However, I just had to make sure that inside Lilly's chest cavity there was a heart." . . .

Tear Gland Disorders In Babies And Adults

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

We frequently are asked, "Why do my eyes water all the time?" or "Why do my eyes tear as though I were crying?" The reasons are simple: Either the tear glands are overactive or the drainage ducts are obstructed. The cure is more complex.

The lacrimal (tear) gland is a flattened structure that lies on the outer and upper part of the eye. Eight to 12 ducts carry the tears to the eye and the lid acts like a windshield wiper to keep the surface moist and clean.

The liquid drains into an upper and a lower canal that empty into the lacrimal sac located in a bony groove in the nasal corner of the orbit. The sac in turn connects with the nose through the nasolacrimal duct. Thus the tears originate on the outer side of the eye and travel toward the nasal end where they escape through a tube into the nose.

A development defect in the lacrimal or drainage apparatus is suspected when increased secretion or excessive tearing is a problem in babies. In most instances, the tube leading to the nose fails to open. If it does not function by the end of five months, the passageway is probed or surgery is done. The delay is suggested because it frequently opens spontaneously. Meanwhile, the mother is kept busy bathing the eye in a saline solution to remove the thickened secretions that tend to accumulate on the lid and lashes.

An adult with this condition may require surgery to provide a new drainage canal. When the tears escape down the cheeks of an older person, usually the lower lid is to blame. It loses tone and sags almost to the point of acting like a funnel.

Obstruction in the lacrimal drainage apparatus also may stem from inflammation. Tearing is accompanied by redness and in addition, light hurts the eyes and vision may be blurred. Infection or a foreign body in the eye may be responsible for this type of irritation.

IRONBOUND

J. I. writes: What are the symptoms of too much iron in the body?

REPLY

The most frequent manifestation of hemochromatosis is excessive pigmentation (a metallic gray hue). Favored areas are the face, neck, forearms, hands and lower legs. Later, diabetes develops and the liver enlarges. For some reason, the body does not metabolize iron properly.

WITH OR WITHOUT PILLOW

D. V. writes: Is it harmful to an adult's heart or lungs to sleep without a pillow?

REPLY

No. Many persons with certain forms of heart or lung disease feel better and breathe easier when sleeping on two or three pillows. The opposite is not true, however, in that sleeping without a pillow will harm the heart or lungs.

SORE HIP

C. M. writes: If walking hurts arthritic hips, is it better not to walk?

REPLY

Yes, provided pain is excruciating or so severe it takes all the joy out of walking. Using a cane or crutch might be helpful.

TOMORROW: Ear noises.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A 9-year-old lad, having participated in his first interclass basketball game, arrived home in a high state of elation. "We creamed them, dad," he reported triumphantly, "but it was nip-and-tuck right down to the wire." "Good for you," approved his father. "What was the score?" The boy replied, "One to nothing."

An American businessman was called upon to make a few remarks at a conclave in London. His audience failed to respond to a couple of his corny jokes. Piqued, the business man remarked, "You English will probably laugh at my stories some time next summer." "On the contrary," the chairman told him. "We laughed at them last summer."

California is spending millions to transport by pipeline some of the rain water that beats down so persistently on the coastal region of Washington and Oregon. A University of Washington professor in Seattle told me, "That majestic peak you see about sixty miles to the Southeast is Mount Rainier. We use it as a weather guide every morning. If we can see it when we wake up, we know it's going to rain later in the day. If we can't see it, we know it's raining already!"

When Seattle folk can see Mt. Rainier, incidentally, or when Mt. Hood is visible to the citizens of Portland, the common phrase is, "Oh, look: the mountain is out today!"

The earliest Dr. Paul Tompkins would promise any federal standards was one year hence.

Pentagon Sets Policy

Inside fact in the confusion and news suppression over radioactive fallout is that the Kennedy administration operates a strong Pentagon and a weak Department of Health Education and Welfare, and no firm action is being taken by Kennedy's science adviser, Jerry Wiesner.

Last August when radioactive fallout was so bad in parts of the West the farmers in Utah and Minnesota took their cows off pasturage, the military advisers on radioactivity got worried. They didn't want the public to get alarmed.

Secretary of HEW Anthony Celebrezze went on the air to calm the nation.

Celebrezze had only been in office a short time, was not fully familiar with either radioactive dangers or the fact that his Public Health Service has been vacilating in the face of Pentagon pressure.

Paradoxically Secretary of Defense Bob McNamara has been one of the most forthright members of the Kennedy administration in being concerned about nuclear testing but doesn't always control his generals.

Dairy farmers have also been most cooperative and patriotic regarding nuclear fallout, sometimes at considerable expense. They have taken their cows off green pasture when asked to do so, and fed hay and stored silage, from which there is no danger.

Fortunately, Iodine 131, the chief risk for the thyroids of young children, evaporates quickly. In eight days one-half of its strength is gone, and in sixteen days 75 per cent. In 36 days, 94 per cent of its strength is gone and in two months all has evaporated. Thus farmers can save green pasturage for a late hay harvest, meanwhile using stored hay.

However, neither the farmers nor state authorities can cooperate if they don't know what the danger guidelines are and if they don't know the facts in the suppressed U-2 report on radioactivity.

NOTE — Worry over the increasing danger of nuclear fallout was one factor behind President Kennedy's announcement that the United States would hold no further nuclear tests in the atmosphere "so long as other states do not do so."

Most Congressmen don't know it, but the Congressional Page Corps is the last stronghold of segregation on Capitol Hill. Negroes are still excluded, despite the fact that the Supreme Court, just across the Capitol Plaza, lifted the color line against Negroe pages some years ago.

Girls are also barred from the ranks of the page boys who carry messages, books and glasses of water for Senate and House members. You must be male, white, and between 14 and 18 years of age to belong to this elite corps. But mostly you must be male and white. Rep. Barratt O'Hara of Chicago was bluntly reminded of this when he tried to name a Negro youth to the page roll not long ago.

Few of the pages themselves have any racial prejudices. They feel it would be better to lift the color bar (rather than the sex distinction) as a starter. Bill Bradley of Ware, Mass., 15-year-old page appointee of Speaker John McCormack, summed up the general feeling this way:

"We just carry out orders and try to do a good job. Of course, we are not against Negro pages. As for girls, there is a practical objection. Even if their parents were agreeable, girls would find this work too tough.

"Pages have to be up every morning at 6:30 for school and stay on the job until 5 or 6 p.m., sometimes later. I occasionally have to run 40 errands a day for House members. That might be hard for a girl."

There are 24 pages in the Senate, 50 in the House. The great majority of them are political patronage employes of the party controlling Congress. Each is paid $380 a month, a whopping salary for the 14-18 age group.

A few former pages have been elected to Congress, including Rep. John Dingell of Michigan. But Dingell doesn't recommend his own page-boy antics as a pattern for future statesmanship. He and other pages used to startle tourists by putting cigerettes in the mouths of stone figures in Statuary Hall.

Rockefeller And The 'American Home' Issue

By Joseph Alsop

AVON, Conn.

Connecticut used to be, and still ought to be, a strong center of support for the Presidential ambitions of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

This is his neighbor state, and in all the Republican contests since 1932, the Connecticut delegation has always supported the more progressive Presidential aspirant. Furthermore, the New York Governor already had Connecticut pretty well lined up—until his recent remarriage.

In that earlier time, one man who was virtually certain to be a key Rockefeller delegate to the Republican Convention was former Sen. Prescott Bush, whose standing in the state has been in no way diminished by his voluntary retirement from active politics.

Consider, therefore, what has now happened. Sen. Bush has just made the commencement speech at Rosemary Hall, a girls' school in Greenwich, Conn. Although he is the very opposite of a Goldwater Republican, the Senator chose this occasion for the plainest speaking about Gov. Rockefeller that has yet been heard from any quarter.

"Have we," he inquired, "come to the point in our life as a great nation where the Governor of a great state — one who perhaps aspires to the nomination for President — can desert a good wife, mother of his grown children, divorce her, then persuade a young mother of four youngsters to abandon her husband and . . . children and marry the Governor?

"Have we come to the point where one of the two great political parties will confer upon such a one its highest honor and greatest responsibility? . . . (Are Americans) ready to say 'phooey' to the sancity of the American home and the American family? . . . I venture to hope not?"

Possibly because this kind of language is so startling, at least when used by a politician rather than a preacher, almost no newspaper in Connecticut or elsewhere gave the Bush speech a big play. Yet Sen. Bush was not doing mere moral turn for a special occasion, such as a girls' school graduation.

After the speech, he stated for quotation that Gov. Rockefeller should now "publicly withdraw" from the Presidential race. In the same breath, he added what was already well known, that he had previously favored the Governor's nomination.

Politics being politics, the fact that the Bush speech did not receive wide current publicity is of no great significance. One can all but hear the supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and other Republican hopefuls gloatingly give their printing orders for vast future mailings of the Senators' remarks to every person who may conceivably influence a single Republican delegate. When something of this sort has been said, it can never be un-said.

All in all, without entering into the moral pros and cons, the Bush speech is a major political phenomenon. With a kind of dire finality, it indicates that Gov. Rockefeller's remarriage is an even bigger political handicap than most people have supposed, or at least have been willing to say. On this point, there is additional significant evidence.

In brief, Republican leaders here were among the first to be telephoned by New York National Committeeman George Hineman when the able Hineman passed the word that the Governor was indeed going to remarry, and begged all Rockefeller friends to stand fast nonetheless. Yet the former Rockefeller support in Connecticut is now all over the lot, to put it very mildly indeed.

The plain truth is that, as a Presidential aspirant, Gov. Rockefeller now looks nearly as dead as the proverbial smelt—unless some great, unforseen, reviving act brings him back like Lazarus from the tomb. Obviously, he will seek to try such an act.

Probably his speechwriters are already studying the classic utterance which was largely written by Winston Churchill for the Duke of Windsor. One can imagine making what might be called a reverse-adaptation of the Windsor abdication speech for Gov. Rockefeller's case.

An effort of that sort that would be effective obviously cannot be ruled out. Gov. Rockefeller is a man of immense ability and energy. He has the only serious political organization in the field in the whole Republican Party. If anyone can make a comeback, he ought to be able to make a comeback.

Yet making a comeback certainly will not be easy. The greatest single weakness of the Governor's position may be defined as the absence of a Republican Hubert Humphrey. In 1960, President Kennedy's greatest piece of luck (although he did not think so at the time) was Sen. Humphrey's eagerness to enter primaries, in which President Kennedy, then proved his own vote-getting powers.

In the present instance, none of the other Republican Presidential hopefuls, declared or possible, has the smallest intention of entering a primary. It will not do Gov. Rockefeller much good to run in New Hampshire, for instance, against the empty air. Hence it will be interesting to see how the Governor handles his problem.

ROCKEFELLER'S REMARRIAGE—New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's marriage to the former Mrs. Margaretta (Happy) Murphy is playing havoc with the 1964 GOP presidential sweepstakes.

Until rumors of the romance broke into print on disclosure of Mrs. Murphy's divorce, Rockefeller was considered an odds-on favorite to capture the top spot on the Republican national ticket. Now, following their marriage, politicians aren't so certain.

Rockefeller's popularity showed signs of slippage even before his personal life was injected into political discussions. Polls show that such candidate potentials as Sen. Barry Goldwater and Govs. George Romney (Michigan) and William W. Scranton (Pennsylvania) were picking up popularity at Rockefeller's expense.

Some political observers now express serious doubts that Rocky will be able to muster enough support at the 1964 GOP political convention to capture the nomination.

If the polls are any reflection of GOP thinking, the most likely candidate now seems to be Goldwater, the Senate's and the country's most outspoken conservative. Goldwater was the personal favorite of the 1960 convention that nominated Richard M. Nixon. He fought firmly against being placed on the second spot on the ballot. There's little doubt that if that convention had voted its heart instead of its head, Goldwater would have won.

This, in fact, is the root of the problem. The GOP "pros" are more conservative than their rank-and-file following and have shown remarkable restraint in selecting presidential candidates with appeal to the broad mass, rather than to the conservative minority of the party. To select Goldwater, in the opinion of many political observers, would be to forfeit the 1964 presidential race to John F. Kennedy.

However, Rockefeller's personal life figures to cost him many votes in the minds of impartial political observers. His remarriage could leave the GOP without a potentially winning presidential prospect.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Lilly is a difficult study. She died last week in a southwestern town and a friend sent the obituary notice. She was 28, unmarried, and her next of kin was her beloved mother. Her only kin. One of the kinder men in the county said it was too bad that Lilly didn't die at birth.

At the age of 16, Lilly was a tall redhead with a shoulder-length coiffure and more curves than the Sante Fe at Raton Pass. She seemed to start broad and deep at the shoulders and taper down to nothing at the ankles, below which hung a pair of large feet. She was a sweet, shy child who stared deep into the eyes of the high school teachers, especially those who wore trousers.

One day Lilly's mother made a visit to the high school principal. Two days later, the physical education teacher resigned and disappeared. Why, I don't know. I do know that Lilly lived alone with her mother on the second floor of an old house and Lilly's mother preached a monotonous litany: "All men are no good. Grab what you can and run."

Momma was embittered because she had had two husbands and had lost both because they had trapped her playing profitable games with their friends. She never forgave them for catching her dead-to-rights. Since then, she had worked in the courthouse by day and the taverns at night.

Lilly quit school after the physical ed teacher disappeared. She felt that she was ready for bigger problems than math. She could stare into a hosiery store window and see passing men come to a stop behind her. She watched them study her. It gave her a feeling of power; the confidence of a hunter staring down the barrel of a gun at a transfixed buck.

She took a job in a cannery and, the first week, took dead aim at the middle-aged man who owned the place. She fixed those big brown innocent eyes on him and, when she caught him looking back, she lowered her eyes to her work. Within a month, she was his secretary, although her schoolmates thought it odd that Lilly had never studied stenography or typing.

As I said, she is a difficult study. There are big blank spaces in Lilly's short biography. At the age of eighteen, she bought her mother a little house with a $5,000 down payment. A few months later, the owner of the cannery tried to commit suicide. The county court held sanity hearings, and the man was placed in an institution.

Lilly attended the hearings, as a spectator. Her wide-eyed innocence in the front row attracted one of the lawyers. His first name was Henry and he was a portly man marked as a comer in the Republican Party. He was sure to be a Supreme Court judge and he might, in time, become governor of the state.

Henry had a wife who was pretty, and four growing daughters. When the hearings were over, he passed Lilly in the court corridor, stared at the remarkable figure and red hair, and asked if she had understood the issues. Lilly said she didn't, but she would appreciate it if someone explained them to her.

She was a little over 19 when she demanded that Henry make a choice between his family and her. He made it. It wasn't easy, but he chose Lilly. The whole county was shocked when the separation and divorce became public property. Then Lilly refused to marry him.

They remained good friends, and Henry spent more and more time at Lilly's house than anywhere else, except the saloons. Lilly was 21 when Henry was arrested for stealing $11,000 from a trust fund. The prosecutor was his classmate, Sal. Sal begged him to plead guilty and get a fine and suspended sentence.

Lilly advised Henry to fight the case. He did. The judge who sent him away for 18 months almost wept. Henry was through, disbarred, finished. Lilly sat at dinner with her mother that night and said: "He was nice, but he had no character." Her mother grunted. She had taught her daughter that all men are no good, and the child was learning.

Lilly went to see the prosecutor, to ask if anything could be done to shorten the sentence. He thought that her loyalty was touching. "Forget Henry," Sal said. "He's a goner." So was Sal. He was unmarried, and he had a good job with a lot of local power.

The romance—to use the word loosely—lasted five years. It was the Federal Government which finally tapped Sal on the shoulder. By this time, Lilly had a mink coat and a big car. She and her mother had a maid and a bank account. Sal forgot to tell the truth in four income tax returns.

He was still in prison when the final curtain came down on Lilly. The cannery owner was still in an institution. Henry was working in a supermarket. Lilly was found dead in bed, with an empty bottle of sedatives under the pillow.

The friend who wrote me was the coroner. "I did the autopsy," he wrote. "It wasn't really necessary because cause of death was obvious. However, I just had to make sure that inside Lilly's chest cavity there was a heart." . . .

Tear Gland Disorders In Babies And Adults

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

We frequently are asked, "Why do my eyes water all the time?" or "Why do my eyes tear as though I were crying?" The reasons are simple: Either the tear glands are overactive or the drainage ducts are obstructed. The cure is more complex.

The lacrimal (tear) gland is a flattened structure that lies on the outer and upper part of the eye. Eight to 12 ducts carry the tears to the eye and the lid acts like a windshield wiper to keep the surface moist and clean.

The liquid drains into an upper and a lower canal that empty into the lacrimal sac located in a bony groove in the nasal corner of the orbit. The sac in turn connects with the nose through the nasolacrimal duct. Thus the tears originate on the outer side of the eye and travel toward the nasal end where they escape through a tube into the nose.

A development defect in the lacrimal or drainage apparatus is suspected when increased secretion or excessive tearing is a problem in babies. In most instances, the tube leading to the nose fails to open. If it does not function by the end of five months, the passageway is probed or surgery is done. The delay is suggested because it frequently opens spontaneously. Meanwhile, the mother is kept busy bathing the eye in a saline solution to remove the thickened secretions that tend to accumulate on the lid and lashes.

An adult with this condition may require surgery to provide a new drainage canal. When the tears escape down the cheeks of an older person, usually the lower lid is to blame. It loses tone and sags almost to the point of acting like a funnel.

Obstruction in the lacrimal drainage apparatus also may stem from inflammation. Tearing is accompanied by redness and in addition, light hurts the eyes and vision may be blurred. Infection or a foreign body in the eye may be responsible for this type of irritation.

IRONBOUND

J. I. writes: What are the symptoms of too much iron in the body?

REPLY

The most frequent manifestation of hemochromatosis is excessive pigmentation (a metallic gray hue). Favored areas are the face, neck, forearms, hands and lower legs. Later, diabetes develops and the liver enlarges. For some reason, the body does not metabolize iron properly.

WITH OR WITHOUT PILLOW

D. V. writes: Is it harmful to an adult's heart or lungs to sleep without a pillow?

REPLY

No. Many persons with certain forms of heart or lung disease feel better and breathe easier when sleeping on two or three pillows. The opposite is not true, however, in that sleeping without a pillow will harm the heart or lungs.

SORE HIP

C. M. writes: If walking hurts arthritic hips, is it better not to walk?

REPLY

Yes, provided pain is excruciating or so severe it takes all the joy out of walking. Using a cane or crutch might be helpful.

TOMORROW: Ear noises.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

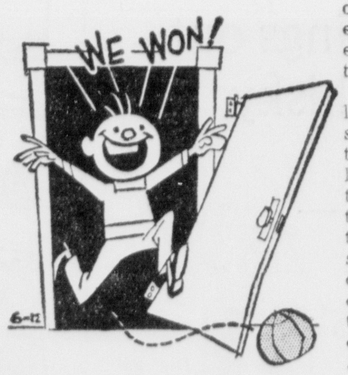
Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A 9-year-old lad, having participated in his first interclass basketball game, arrived home in a high state of elation. "We creamed them, dad," he reported triumphantly, "but it was nip-and-tuck right down to the wire." "Good for you," approved his father. "What was the score?" The boy replied, "One to nothing."

An American businessman was called upon to make a few remarks at a conclave in London. His audience failed to respond to a couple of his corny jokes. Piqued, the business man remarked, "You English will probably laugh at my stories some time next summer." "On the contrary," the chairman told him. "We laughed at them last summer."

California is spending millions to transport by pipeline some of the rain water that beats down so persistently on the coastal region of Washington and Oregon. A University of Washington professor in Seattle told me, "That majestic peak you see about sixty miles to the Southeast is Mount Rainier. We use it as a weather guide every morning. If we can see it when we wake up, we know it's going to rain later in the day. If we can't see it, we know it's raining already!"



When Seattle folk can see Mt. Rainier, incidentally, or when Mt. Hood is visible to the citizens of Portland, the common phrase is, "Oh, look: the mountain is out today!"

Baltimore Bullets Land West Virginia's Rod Thorn

NBA Club's Top Draft Pick Signs One-Year Pact

Terms Undisclosed; WVU Star To Play Backcourt Position

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association announced the signing Tuesday of Rod Thorn, the club's No. 1 draft choice from West Virginia University.

Coach Bob Leonard personally escorted Thorn into the city for a press conference to announce the landing of the second team All-America player of last season. Terms of the one-year contract were not disclosed.

Thorn, a 6-foot-4 playmaker and outside shooter, will be used in the backcourt position by the Bullets—who as the Chicago Zephyrs last year were weak in that position.

Thorn is the third leading scorer and rebounder in West Virginia history. His three-year point total of 1,795 ranks behind only Jerry West and Rod Hundley, who preceded him into the NBA.

Thorn lives in Princeton, W.Va., where his father is the police chief. The elder Thorn was once a baseball player in the St. Louis Cardinals' chain.

Young Rod, a first baseman who led the Southern Conference in runs batted in as a junior, also had hopes of a baseball career.

But, after he was beaned in a college game early this season, he sat out the remainder of the schedule and decided to sign with the Bullets.

Thorn was hit over the left ear with a baseball thrown by a teammate. He suffered dizzy spells for a short time after the beaning, but said he is all right now.

After missing most of the baseball season, Thorn said he figured his "market value" in the sport had diminished.

"I've seen Rod play and I know he'll help our backcourt situation," Leonard said. "He's a good team man, who will help the ball club and will fit in with our running offense.

"The signing of Thorn is one of the steps we must take to make us a winner. I think we'll probably have our top three draft choices signed before anyone else in the league."

Gus Johnson of Idaho was drafted No. 2 by the Bullets, followed by Tom Bolyard of Indiana.

Moon Glo Cops Second Place

Cumberland's Moon Glo Raiders, local roller hockey team took second place in the Eastern Regional Ball and Cane Championships Sunday at the Reading (Pa.) Fairgrounds.

The Raiders, one of five teams entered at Reading, copped three of five games and were beaten out by the Pottstown (Pa.) Bears, 5-3 in the finals. Moon Glo also finished second last year in the eastern regional.

Other teams competing in the eastern event besides Moon Glo and Pottstown were Allentown, Leighton and Scranton, all Pennsylvania entries.

Moon Glo drew a first round bye, then defeated Scranton (2-0) and Leighton (2-1). Both losses came at the hands of Pottstown, 3-0 and 5-3.

Richard Ross had seven goals for the locals, and Eugene Ross, Bob Cordry and Bob Park contributed one each. Jeep Ferguson, Ivan McDaniel and Ray Champ also excelled for the Raiders.

Second place in the eastern regional qualifies Moon Glo for a berth in the American Championship Ball and Cane Meet at Portland, Oregon, scheduled from July 26 to August 3.

Other honors won by Moon Glo this year include the Western Pennsylvania League championship, and the Maryland and Tidewater States crowns.

Red Sox Top Detroit, 7-3, In 15 Innings

Radatz Extends Scoreless String

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Malzone and Dick Stuart slammed back to back home runs in the top of the 15th inning Tuesday to hand the Boston Red Sox a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers behind the sparkling relief pitching of Dick Radatz who extended his scoreless inning string to 31.

Radatz pitched 8 2-3 innings of scoreless relief ball to lower his league-leading earned run average to 0.92. He relieved starter Wilbur Wood with one out and one on in the seventh inning with Boston leading 3-2.

Pinch-hitter Billy Bruton collected a two-out single off Radatz to knock in a run that was charged to Wood and tied the game 3-3. Radatz then held Detroit to two singles by Dick McAuliffe over the next eight innings until the Red Sox finally got to Terry Fox.

Fox, who relieved starter Jim Bunning in the top of the eighth inning, blanked the Red Sox for seven innings until the winners exploded in the 15th. After Chuck Schilling reached first on an error, was sacrificed to second and Carl Yastrzemski was walked intentionally, Malzone hit the three-run homer that won the game. Stuart then followed with another homer to ice it.

Boston first took the lead with three runs in the sixth inning off Bunning when Roman Mejias slugged a two-run homer and Malzone singled in another run.

Radatz has not allowed a run in 13 relief appearances since May 12 when Washington's Don Locke hit a 14th inning homer off him to hand Radatz his only loss of the year. Radatz is now 5-1 for the season.

Reds' Maloney Defeats Mets

NEW YORK (UPI)—A five-run rally in the third inning enabled the Cincinnati Reds to breeze to an 8-3 victory over the New York Mets Tuesday and give pitcher Jim Maloney his seventh victory in his last eight starts.

Maloney fanned 12 batters and allowed four of the Mets' five hits in the eight innings he worked. It was his ninth win against only two losses. Jim Owens pitched the ninth inning.

The Reds sent 10 batters to the plate and knocked out Mets starter and loser Al Jackson in their five-run spree.

Jackson, who had been tagged for a run in the second, gave up a single to Pete Rose and consecutive doubles by Tommy Harper and Vada Pinson to open the third.

Jay Hook replaced Jackson and was shelled for three more hits by Gordy Coleman, Johnny Edwards and Maloney in addition to giving a walk to Daryl Spencer before retiring the side.

Included in Cincinnati's 12-hit barrage were solo home runs by Pinson in the fourth and Harper in the sixth, both off Ken MacKenzie.

Baltimore Bullets Land West Virginia's Rod Thorn

NBA Club's Top Draft Pick Signs One-Year Pact

Terms Undisclosed; WVU Star To Play Backcourt Position

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association announced the signing Tuesday of Rod Thorn, the club's No. 1 draft choice from West Virginia University.

Coach Bob Leonard personally escorted Thorn into the city for a press conference to announce the landing of the second team All-America player of last season. Terms of the one-year contract were not disclosed.

Thorn, a 6-foot-4 playmaker and outside shooter, will be used in the backcourt position by the Bullets—who as the Chicago Zephyrs last year were weak in that position.

Thorn is the third leading scorer and rebounder in West Virginia history. His three-year point total of 1,795 ranks behind only Jerry West and Rod Hundley, who preceded him into the NBA.

Thorn lives in Princeton, W.Va., where his father is the police chief. The elder Thorn was once a baseball player in the St. Louis Cardinals' chain.

Young Rod, a first baseman who led the Southern Conference in runs batted in as a junior, also had hopes of a baseball career.

But, after he was beaned in a college game early this season, he sat out the remainder of the schedule and decided to sign with the Bullets.

Thorn was hit over the left ear with a baseball thrown by a teammate. He suffered dizzy spells for a short time after the beaning, but said he is all right now.

After missing most of the baseball season, Thorn said he figured his "market value" in the sport had diminished.

"I've seen Rod play and I know he'll help our backcourt situation," Leonard said. "He's a good team man, who will help the ball club and will fit in with our running offense.

"The signing of Thorn is one of the steps we must take to make us a winner. I think we'll probably have our top three draft choices signed before anyone else in the league."

Gus Johnson of Idaho was drafted No. 2 by the Bullets, followed by Tom Bolyard of Indiana.

Radatz Extends Scoreless String

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Malzone and Dick Stuart slammed back to back home runs in the top of the 15th inning Tuesday to hand the Boston Red Sox a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers behind the sparkling relief pitching of Dick Radatz who extended his scoreless inning string to 31.

Radatz pitched 8 2-3 innings of scoreless relief ball to lower his league-leading earned run average to 0.92. He relieved starter Wilbur Wood with one out and one on in the seventh inning with Boston leading 3-2.

Pinch-hitter Billy Bruton collected a two-out single off Radatz to knock in a run that was charged to Wood and tied the game 3-3. Radatz then held Detroit to two singles by Dick McAuliffe over the next eight innings until the Red Sox finally got to Terry Fox.

Fox, who relieved starter Jim Bunning in the top of the eighth inning, blanked the Red Sox for seven innings until the winners exploded in the 15th. After Chuck Schilling reached first on an error, was sacrificed to second and Carl Yastrzemski was walked intentionally, Malzone hit the three-run homer that won the game. Stuart then followed with another homer to ice it.

Boston first took the lead with three runs in the sixth inning off Bunning when Roman Mejias slugged a two-run homer and Malzone singled in another run.

Radatz has not allowed a run in 13 relief appearances since May 12 when Washington's Don Locke hit a 14th inning homer off him to hand Radatz his only loss of the year. Radatz is now 5-1 for the season.

Jackson, who had been tagged for a run in the second, gave up a single to Pete Rose and consecutive doubles by Tommy Harper and Vada Pinson to open the third.

Jay Hook replaced Jackson and was shelled for three more hits by Gordy Coleman, Johnny Edwards and Maloney in addition to giving a walk to Daryl Spencer before retiring the side.

Included in Cincinnati's 12-hit barrage were solo home runs by Pinson in the fourth and Harper in the sixth, both off Ken MacKenzie.

Nicklaus' Idea To Curtail Pro Golf Tour Draws Blast

Doug Ford Says Jack Thinking Only About Self

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' suggestion for a curtailment of the pro golf tour drew a heated blast Tuesday from Doug Ford, former PGA and Masters champion — and other players joined in the dissenting tune.

"Sure, Nicklaus is in favor of a shorter tournament schedule, and why shouldn't he be?" Ford fumed. "That's because he has it made, he's on top.

"But what about all the poor, struggling guys trying to make the grade? Jack's not thinking about them. He's thinking only about himself. It's a very selfish attitude, I think."

Nicklaus, 23-year-old Masters and U.S. Open champion, said in Brookline, Mass., Monday that the PGA circuit was "getting out of hand" and that the schedule should be cut to 30 tournaments a year. At present, there are more than 40.

Jack said the abbreviated tournament card would give players a chance to play exhibitions and unofficial money competitions.

"Nicklaus only wants to play in the big money events," Ford said. "If a tournament doesn't offer a big purse, he skips it. He doesn't seem to feel he has an obligation to the sponsors.

"Jack has been more fortunate than most of us. He had a brilliant career as an amateur. He jumped into the pro ranks and immediately hit the jackpot.

"That's great, but how many players can do that? The majority has to sweat over their games, claw and fight their way to reasonable success. The only way they can do it is through the smaller tournaments.

"If the PGA tour were limited to 30 tournaments, all would be selective affairs with big purses, $50,000 to $100,000. The little fellow, trying to get a start, wouldn't even be invited.

"Sponsors feel slighted when they don't get the so-called Big Three — Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player. Yet look how many of the smaller tournaments never get them, because there's not a big enough purse to be attractive.

"After I won the PGA and the Masters, I still felt an obligation to play in those tournaments where sponsors were nice to me when I didn't amount to a hill of beans. Palmer had the same sort of start I did—son of a pro, etc.—and he is very considerate of sponsors, but some of the fellows aren't."

Bob Goalby said he felt that Nicklaus was acting hastily in making the proposal. "Jack's a good kid but he hasn't fully matured," Goalby said. "These are things you learn with time. I'm one of the guys still struggling to make the grade."

Claude Harmon, former Masters champion who isn't one of the tour players, said: "I think curtailment of the tournament schedule would hurt the game—like knocking out the minor leagues in baseball."

The pro golfers are here for the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic starting Thursday at the Westchester Country Club. It's one of the few tournaments on the schedule which has attracted the elite.

Houston's Farrell Enters Hospital

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston Colt pitcher Richard (Turk) Farrell entered Methodist Hospital Tuesday for treatment of a pulled back muscle.

The big righthander appeared to be out of service for an indefinite period because of the injury sustained in Sunday night's 3-0 win over San Francisco. The team doctor thought at first Farrell would have to miss only one turn on the mound. But Farrell was on crutches Tuesday and will not accompany the team on its trip to the West Coast Wednesday. He may be able to rejoin the team later during the 15-game road trip.

Texas Boxer Still Fighting For Life

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Boxer Luther Ray Hubble, 24, fought gamely for his life Tuesday. His wife, the mother of four small children, kept a vigil at his bedside.

A spokesman for Northwest Texas Hospital said Hubble showed improvement, but was still carried on the critical list.

He has been in a coma since Friday night. He collapsed in his dressing room after he was knocked out in the third round of a four-round preliminary against Willie Franklin, 27.

Doctors said Hubble's neck hit the second and third ropes as he sagged to the floor of the ring. Doctors said he did not suffer any brain damage.

Cleveland Hands Slumping Orioles Fourth Straight Setback, 9-5

Indians Extend Winning Streak To Five Games

Billy Hitchcock Lodges Protest In Ninth Inning

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Cleveland Indians ran their winning streak to five games Tuesday night, whacking 13 hits, including four homers, for a 9-5 victory over slumping Baltimore. The loss was the Orioles fourth straight and 10th in 12 games.

Baltimore battled back from a 9-1 deficit to score two runs in the eighth on Al Smith's homer, and two more during a weird ninth inning which wound up with Baltimore protesting the game.

After three singles and a walk forced in one run, Bob Allen replaced Grant on the mound for Cleveland. Indian Manager Birdie Tebbetts yanked Allen after he threw two balls to Jim Gentile, the first batter he faced.

Protests Pitching Change

With Ted Abernathy on the mound and Allen in the dugout, Oriole Manager Billy Hitchcock lodged his protest. He contended Allen should have been required to finish pitching to at least one man unless he had been removed for illness or injury as required under the rules.

Allen then came back to the mound and walked Gentile, forcing in the second run of the inning. Tebbetts then brought back Abernathy who retired Russ Snyder on a ground out to end the game.

Three-Run Homer

Al Luplow, Fred Whitfield and Dick Howser hit solo homers off Baltimore starter Robin Roberts, while Willie Kirkland socked a three-run homer off Wes Stock to cap a four-run rally in the seventh.

Roberts, the 17th consecutive Baltimore starter who has failed to go the distance, also gave up three doubles and a triple in addition to the three homers before he was removed in the fifth inning. The pitching records of both Grant and Roberts are 4-6.

Gibson Leads Cards To 3-1 Win Over Bucs

Hurls Six-Hitter, Drives In Tally

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Gibson singled home what turned out to be the winning run and pitched a six-hitter Tuesday night as St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 3-1.

The victory gave the Cardinals a one-half game lead in the National League over Los Angeles, pending the outcome of the Dodgers' later game with San Francisco.

Gibson's hit to left-center came after Julian Javier doubled in the fifth inning and broke a 1-1 deadlock.

The 27-year-old right-hander wasn't in trouble after the first inning, when the Pirates scored their run on Jerry Lynch's double following walks to Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski.

Right-hander Kenny Blank of Barrelville pitched an 8-0 no-hitter over the Maroons in a Pen-Mar Little League game yesterday at Barrelville.

The LaVale Orioles outhit the Cresaptown Eagles to win 14-6 at Shehan Field in LaVale. Mike O'Connell and Jim Wilson had homers for the Orioles, Terry Ellsworth hit a triple, Kenny Smith and Cochenour each had two singles, and John Corley had three singles and five RBIs. Bob Wilson was the winning pitcher, Eversole the loser.

A scheduled game between Wellersburg and Tri-State Memorial at Cresaptown was postponed because of wet grounds.

Candy Spots Goes Saturday

Tenney Satisfied Colt Is Ready

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, winner of eight of his 10 races and a contender for honors as 3-year-old horse of the year, definitely will run in Saturday's $100,000 added Chicagoan at Washington Park, trainer Meshach Tenney announced Tuesday.

Tenney had deferred decision whether his horse would run until he watched Candy Spots in motion after a 16 hour van ride from New York, where he was defeated by two and one half lengths in the mile-and-one-half Belmont Stakes Saturday.

Earlier he had planned to canter the horse Wednesday before making his decision, but he said he was "surprised" to see how well the horse moved in walking around the stable area Tuesday.

"He acted so good Tuesday I had to give him this chance at the Chicagoan," Tenney said. "I was so satisfied with the way he came back that barring any unforeseen occurrence, we're going to put him in the race."

Both of Candy Spots' defeats were this year, and to the same horse — John Galbreath's Chateaugay in the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont. Candy Spots was third with Never Bend in front of him too in the Derby and second in the Belmont.

However, he has won $580,000 with five victories in seven starts this year and three straight wins without a loss as a 2-year-old.

Field Of 99 Qualifies For U.S. Open Title

Some Top Names In Golf Included

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran Gardner Dickinson of Tequesta, Fla., shot a sparkling 68-67—135 at the Detroit Golf Club Tuesday to lead a field off 99 qualifiers from seven cities for the U. S. Open golf championship.

Dickinson topped a field of 20 players who qualified from Detroit while Pennsylvanians Ed Furgol and young Bob Schoener had 139's at Export, Pa., to lead a big field of 45 qualifiers, including some of the top names in professional golf.

Furgol had a 73-66—139 at the Westmoreland Country Club in Export, while Schoener, an unheralded 27-year-old from Bethlehem, Pa., had a 69-70—139 at Purchase, New York, where such pros as Sam Snead, still shooting for his first U.S. Open title at 51, Julius Boros and Cary Middlecoff also qualified. The Open will be played at Brookline, Mass., June 20-22.

A total of 30 players qualified at six sites Monday and 99 at seven sites Tuesday for 129 qualifiers after two rounds from an original entry list of 2,403. Twenty-one players, led by defending champion Jack Nicklaus, were exempt from any qualifying play.

Other pros who qualified from the big New York field were Kel Nagle of Australia, Lionel and Jay Hebert, George Bayer, Don January, Johnny Pott, Al Johnston, Miller Barber, Ted Kroll and Joe Campbell among others.

Name pros who didn't make it, though included former PGA champions Jim Ferrier and Jim Turnesa, Bob Toski, Jerry Steelsmith, Don Whitt, Bill Collins, Bob Wininger and Ken Venturi.

The casualties at Export included Lew Worsham and Denny Shute, plus young Denny Lyons. Denny's dad, Toby, qualified with a 74-70—144 at New York, while the younger Lyons, a freshman at Florida State, had an 85-73—158. Had the younger Lyons qualified it would have marked the first father-son team in many years playing in the same U.S. Open.

The best round at Atlanta was turned in by Davis Love Jr., of Charlotte, N.C., who shot a 69-72—141. The big name pro casualty there was J. C. Goosie of Largo, Fla.

Huston LaClair of North Falmouth, Mass., topped the Winchester, Mass., field with a 68-73—141. One of the qualifiers there was former pro hockey player Bill Ezinicki of Plymouth, Mass., who made it with a 69-76—145.

Paul Harney of Sunset, Calif., another tourney pro, topped the field at Bakersfield, Calif., where six players qualified. Harney shot a 68-72—140, while at Fort Worth, where four players qualified, Charles Coody, with a 70-71—141, and Buster Cupit, with a 73-68—141, tied for the best score.

Ray Harroun, in winning the first 500-mile race at Indianapolis in 1911, put up the first rear-view mirror on any car to check on cars approaching from the rear since he was the only driver without a riding mechanic.

Raider Coach Calls AFL's Special Draft 'Big Joke'

Oakland, Jets Choose Only Three Players

UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Football League sought to strengthen its two weak links by holding a special internal draft Tuesday, but the New York Jets and Oakland Raiders picked only three plyers between them.

Al Davis, coach and general manager of the Raiders, commented that the draft turned out to be "a big joke."

New York, which failed to sign a single draft choice from the last college pool, selected rookies Jeff Slabaugh from the Buffalo Bills and Gene Heeter from the San Diego Chargers. The Raiders, who finished last in the Western Division in 1962, chose veteran defensive halfback Claude Gibson from the Chargers.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets expressed satisfaction with his selections saying, "We didn't figure to get any outstanding players."

Davis said in Oakland that he was pleased with the acquisition of Gibson, whom he referred to as "a smart, sound and experienced football player," but ridiculed the way the league conducted the draft.

"The whole watered-down draft is a big joke," Davis said. "The way it was originally set up was to hold 50 per cent of the personnel out of the draft. But then they made several changes."

Davis explained that the Jets were permitted to draft from 50 per cent of their rookies although the Raiders and other clubs were not given the same privilege.

Under the terms of the special draft, league clubs were allowed to protect 25 of their veteran players and 50 per cent of the league's signed rookies. The names of other players were placed on a list, with their price, to be scrutinized by New York and Oakland.

Ewbank said that he selected Slabaugh, a 6-2, 238-pound offensive tackle, to replace Alex Kroll, who has announced his retirement from football. Kroll, an outstanding center at Rutgers University, quit to accept a good business opportunity. Slabaugh played at Indiana.

Heeter, a 6-4, 220-pound end, played for West Virginia and was the eighth draft choice of the Chargers.

Birds Give Bonus To Terp Gridder

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Raymond Woitkowski, 18-year-old athlete who was expected to be a strong running quarterback as a sophomore at University of Maryland next fall, signed a bonus baseball contract Tuesday with the Baltimore Orioles.

Woitkowski, a right-hander, will report Friday to the Orioles' Bluefield, W. Va., farm club in the Appalachian League.

He was signed in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Woitkowski, by Baltimore scouts Frank McGowan and Joe Cusick.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sonja Henie, the most famous ice skater in history, made more money at her specialty than any figure in any other sport. Miss Henie's Hollywood Ice Revue alone grossed nearly $50 million and she made an estimated $3 or $4 million more from motion pictures and television.

Cleveland Hands Slumping Orioles Fourth Straight Setback, 9-5

Indians Extend Winning Streak To Five Games

Billy Hitchcock Lodges Protest In Ninth Inning

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Cleveland Indians ran their winning streak to five games Tuesday night, whacking 13 hits, including four homers, for a 9-5 victory over slumping Baltimore. The loss was the Orioles fourth straight and 10th in 12 games.

Baltimore battled back from a 9-1 deficit to score two runs in the eighth on Al Smith's homer, and two more during a weird ninth inning which wound up with Baltimore protesting the game.

After three singles and a walk forced in one run, Bob Allen replaced Grant on the mound for Cleveland. Indian Manager Birdie Tebbetts yanked Allen after he threw two balls to Jim Gentile, the first batter he faced.

Protests Pitching Change

With Ted Abernathy on the mound and Allen in the dugout, Oriole Manager Billy Hitchcock lodged his protest. He contended Allen should have been required to finish pitching to at least one man unless he had been removed for illness or injury as required under the rules.

Allen then came back to the mound and walked Gentile, forcing in the second run of the inning. Tebbetts then brought back Abernathy who retired Russ Snyder on a ground out to end the game.

Three-Run Homer

Al Luplow, Fred Whitfield and Dick Howser hit solo homers off Baltimore starter Robin Roberts, while Willie Kirkland socked a three-run homer off Wes Stock to cap a four-run rally in the seventh.

Roberts, the 17th consecutive Baltimore starter who has failed to go the distance, also gave up three doubles and a triple in addition to the three homers before he was removed in the fifth inning. The pitching records of both Grant and Roberts are 4-6.

Raider Coach Calls AFL's Special Draft 'Big Joke'

Oakland, Jets Choose Only Three Players

UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Football League sought to strengthen its two weak links by holding a special internal draft Tuesday, but the New York Jets and Oakland Raiders picked only three plyers between them.

Al Davis, coach and general manager of the Raiders, commented that the draft turned out to be "a big joke."

New York, which failed to sign a single draft choice from the last college pool, selected rookies Jeff Slabaugh from the Buffalo Bills and Gene Heeter from the San Diego Chargers. The Raiders, who finished last in the Western Division in 1962, chose veteran defensive halfback Claude Gibson from the Chargers.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets expressed satisfaction with his selections saying, "We didn't figure to get any outstanding players."

Davis said in Oakland that he was pleased with the acquisition of Gibson, whom he referred to as "a smart, sound and experienced football player," but ridiculed the way the league conducted the draft.

"The whole watered-down draft is a big joke," Davis said. "The way it was originally set up was to hold 50 per cent of the personnel out of the draft. But then they made several changes."

Davis explained that the Jets were permitted to draft from 50 per cent of their rookies although the Raiders and other clubs were not given the same privilege.

Under the terms of the special draft, league clubs were allowed to protect 25 of their veteran players and 50 per cent of the league's signed rookies. The names of other players were placed on a list, with their price, to be scrutinized by New York and Oakland.

Ewbank said that he selected Slabaugh, a 6-2, 238-pound offensive tackle, to replace Alex Kroll, who has announced his retirement from football. Kroll, an outstanding center at Rutgers University, quit to accept a good business opportunity. Slabaugh played at Indiana.

Heeter, a 6-4, 220-pound end, played for West Virginia and was the eighth draft choice of the Chargers.

Birds Give Bonus To Terp Gridder

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Raymond Woitkowski, 18-year-old athlete who was expected to be a strong running quarterback as a sophomore at University of Maryland next fall, signed a bonus baseball contract Tuesday with the Baltimore Orioles.

Woitkowski, a right-hander, will report Friday to the Orioles' Bluefield, W. Va., farm club in the Appalachian League.

He was signed in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Woitkowski, by Baltimore scouts Frank McGowan and Joe Cusick.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sonja Henie, the most famous ice skater in history, made more money at her specialty than any figure in any other sport. Miss Henie's Hollywood Ice Revue alone grossed nearly $50 million and she made an estimated $3 or $4 million more from motion pictures and television.

Gibson Leads Cards To 3-1 Win Over Bucs

Hurls Six-Hitter, Drives In Tally

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Gibson singled home what turned out to be the winning run and pitched a six-hitter Tuesday night as St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 3-1.

The victory gave the Cardinals a one-half game lead in the National League over Los Angeles, pending the outcome of the Dodgers' later game with San Francisco.

Gibson's hit to left-center came after Julian Javier doubled in the fifth inning and broke a 1-1 deadlock.

The 27-year-old right-hander wasn't in trouble after the first inning, when the Pirates scored their run on Jerry Lynch's double following walks to Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski.

Right-hander Kenny Blank of Barrelville pitched an 8-0 no-hitter over the Maroons in a Pen-Mar Little League game yesterday at Barrelville.

Field Of 99 Qualifies For U.S. Open Title

Some Top Names In Golf Included

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran Gardner Dickinson of Tequesta, Fla., shot a sparkling 68-67—135 at the Detroit Golf Club Tuesday to lead a field off 99 qualifiers from seven cities for the U. S. Open golf championship.

Dickinson topped a field of 20 players who qualified from Detroit while Pennsylvanians Ed Furgol and young Bob Schoener had 139's at Export, Pa., to lead a big field of 45 qualifiers, including some of the top names in professional golf.

Furgol had a 73-66—139 at the Westmoreland Country Club in Export, while Schoener, an unheralded 27-year-old from Bethlehem, Pa., had a 69-70—139 at Purchase, New York, where such pros as Sam Snead, still shooting for his first U.S. Open title at 51, Julius Boros and Cary Middlecoff also qualified. The Open will be played at Brookline, Mass., June 20-22.

A total of 30 players qualified at six sites Monday and 99 at seven sites Tuesday for 129 qualifiers after two rounds from an original entry list of 2,403. Twenty-one players, led by defending champion Jack Nicklaus, were exempt from any qualifying play.

Other pros who qualified from the big New York field were Kel Nagle of Australia, Lionel and Jay Hebert, George Bayer, Don January, Johnny Pott, Al Johnston, Miller Barber, Ted Kroll and Joe Campbell among others.

Name pros who didn't make it, though included former PGA champions Jim Ferrier and Jim Turnesa, Bob Toski, Jerry Steelsmith, Don Whitt, Bill Collins, Bob Wininger and Ken Venturi.

The casualties at Export included Lew Worsham and Denny Shute, plus young Denny Lyons. Denny's dad, Toby, qualified with a 74-70—144 at New York, while the younger Lyons, a freshman at Florida State, had an 85-73—158. Had the younger Lyons qualified it would have marked the first father-son team in many years playing in the same U.S. Open.

The best round at Atlanta was turned in by Davis Love Jr., of Charlotte, N.C., who shot a 69-72—141. The big name pro casualty there was J. C. Goosie of Largo, Fla.

Huston LaClair of North Falmouth, Mass., topped the Winchester, Mass., field with a 68-73—141. One of the qualifiers there was former pro hockey player Bill Ezinicki of Plymouth, Mass., who made it with a 69-76—145.

Paul Harney of Sunset, Calif., another tourney pro, topped the field at Bakersfield, Calif., where six players qualified. Harney shot a 68-72—140, while at Fort Worth, where four players qualified, Charles Coody, with a 70-71—141, and Buster Cupit, with a 73-68—141, tied for the best score.

Ray Harroun, in winning the first 500-mile race at Indianapolis in 1911, put up the first rear-view mirror on any car to check on cars approaching from the rear since he was the only driver without a riding mechanic.

Candy Spots Goes Saturday

Tenney Satisfied Colt Is Ready

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, winner of eight of his 10 races and a contender for honors as 3-year-old horse of the year, definitely will run in Saturday's $100,000 added Chicagoan at Washington Park, trainer Meshach Tenney announced Tuesday.

Tenney had deferred decision whether his horse would run until he watched Candy Spots in motion after a 16 hour van ride from New York, where he was defeated by two and one half lengths in the mile-and-one-half Belmont Stakes Saturday.

Earlier he had planned to canter the horse Wednesday before making his decision, but he said he was "surprised" to see how well the horse moved in walking around the stable area Tuesday.

"He acted so good Tuesday I had to give him this chance at the Chicagoan," Tenney said. "I was so satisfied with the way he came back that barring any unforeseen occurrence, we're going to put him in the race."

Both of Candy Spots' defeats were this year, and to the same horse — John Galbreath's Chateaugay in the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont. Candy Spots was third with Never Bend in front of him too in the Derby and second in the Belmont.

However, he has won $580,000 with five victories in seven starts this year and three straight wins without a loss as a 2-year-old.

Card Of Thanks

We take this means to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness extended to us during our recent bereavement at the death of Stanley Snyder. We also wish to thank Rev. William Anderson, those who sent flowers, donated the use of cars for the funeral, the pallbearers, those who sent food and all those who aided us in any way.

Wife and Family

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear husband and father, Samuel Wilson who passed away June 12, 1960.

He had a nature you couldn't help loving
And a heart that was purer than gold
And to those who knew and loved him
His memory will never grow cold.

Sadly missed by his wife and children.

Card Of Thanks

We take this means to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness extended to us during our recent bereavement at the death of Stanley Snyder. We also wish to thank Rev. William Anderson, those who sent flowers, donated the use of cars for the funeral, the pallbearers, those who sent food and all those who aided us in any way.

Wife and Family

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear husband and father, Samuel Wilson who passed away June 12, 1960.

He had a nature you couldn't help loving
And a heart that was purer than gold
And to those who knew and loved him
His memory will never grow cold.

Sadly missed by his wife and children.

Realty Ramblings . . .

It is an established fact that if we have any self pride at all, and most of us do, we take most pride in the individual things that we are, rather than in what we have. We are proud we are Americans; we are proud we are associated with a political or religious group of our choice; we are proud we are free; we take pride in our accomplished titles, whatever they may be, and in the heights to which they may have borne us.

T. T. SUMMERS

In addition to all these, I take particular pride in being a REALTOR. As a matter of fact, being a REALTOR forces pride on me. It forces me to be proud of my business transactions and my relationship with my clients, because I know when a transaction is completed that by following the accepted practices of the REALTOR I have conducted that transaction in a fair and judicious manner. I am proud because I never need have complaints, regrets or alibis.

There is but one way to do business, and that is the right way; and in the real estate business the right way is the REALTOR's way. Yes, indeed, my good friends, neighbors and readers, I am proud to be a REALTOR. You will better understand why when you permit us to handle your next real estate transaction or problem.

Realty Ramblings . . .

It is an established fact that if we have any self pride at all, and most of us do, we take most pride in the individual things that we are, rather than in what we have. We are proud we are Americans; we are proud we are associated with a political or religious group of our choice; we are proud we are free; we take pride in our accomplished titles, whatever they may be, and in the heights to which they may have borne us.

T. T. SUMMERS

In addition to all these, I take particular pride in being a REALTOR. As a matter of fact, being a REALTOR forces pride on me. It forces me to be proud of my business transactions and my relationship with my clients, because I know when a transaction is completed that by following the accepted practices of the REALTOR I have conducted that transaction in a fair and judicious manner. I am proud because I never need have complaints, regrets or alibis.

There is but one way to do business, and that is the right way; and in the real estate business the right way is the REALTOR's way. Yes, indeed, my good friends, neighbors and readers, I am proud to be a REALTOR. You will better understand why when you permit us to handle your next real estate transaction or problem.

Six Youths Being Held In Dynamiting

Police Combine Efforts For Arrests

Six young Lonaconing area boys were picked up and held for questioning yesterday evening in connection with the dynamiting of a concrete block pumping station in Dan's Mountain State Park early Saturday morning.

State's Attorney James S. Getty said the boys, who range in age from 15 to 18, were questioned last night in the state's attorney's office and are being held in the County Jail pending additional questioning.

It is expected that they will be formally charged sometime today.

Mr. Getty said the arrest of the six resulted from a combined effort by State Police, county authorities and the Lonaconing police.

Participating in the investigation were Tfc. Milton G. Hart, criminal investigator for the State Police, and Tfc. Robert C. Dishong and Tfc. Raymond Andrews of the State Police; Deputy Sheriff William E. Orr; County Investigator William F. Baker and Officer Peter Holshey of the Lonaconing Police Force.

Mr. Getty said a quantity of dynamite caps and fuses also was recovered.

The state's attorney praised the quick work of the officers in the case. He said dynamiting is a very serious offense and there could have been similar incidents if the dynamite hadn't been recovered.

He said he is going to ask Juvenile Court authorities to waive jurisdiction in the case of the juveniles so that he can present the case to the grand jury.

The use of dynamite to destroy property is a felony and persons convicted may face a jail term up to 20 years, Mr. Getty said.

W. A. C. Irvin, district forester, said there was approximately $500 damage to the building which is used to house a water pump.

As a result of the incident, a 10 p.m. curfew has been placed into effect for the park area.

Large Crowd Expected At Circus

Advance ticket sales for the international, three-ring Hamid-Morton circus at the Cumberland Fairgrounds Friday, Saturday and Sunday indicate large turnouts for all three days, according to Richard Kirsch, ticket chairman for Ali Ghan Shrine Temple.

Mr. Kirsch said ticket sales at the downtown Shrine office, 131 Baltimore Street, "have picked up considerably," and probably will hit their peak Thursday night when the Downtown Business Association sponsors the circus parade.

He added that based on advance sales, Ali Ghan officials are anticipating that 20,000 to 30,000 people will turn out for the circus' six performances over three days.

Tickets still may be obtained from Shrine unit members, area business establishements as well as the downtown office, where general admission ducats can be exchanged for reserved section seats.

Nothing To Sell:

Industrial Sites Vital, Partridge Tells UPIDC

The urgent need for land suitable for industrial sites was stressed yesterday by Everett G. Partridge, director, in a report to the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company.

"Without it, in our efforts to attract new business and industries, we are acting somewhat as salesmen without any stock-in-trade," he said.

One point common to all industrial inquiries, he said, was that the prospects wanted to know "what we had to offer for a site and, quite often, what we could show them in a vacant building, either for lease or sale."

Unfortunately, he reported, almost all of the usable buildings in Allegany County are occupied.

Inquiries the UPIDC has had, he said, have asked for as little as 10 acres of land and as much as 500 acres, and an average of 15 to 30 acres.

During his talk, Mr. Partridge illustrated his talk with a topographical map of the county, marked with relatively flat land suitable for industries.

In Frostburg, he said, the Frostburg industrial development group has available a five-acre site with a 17,000-square-foot building which was built for a needle trade industry.

On Route 135 is a possible 15-acre industrial site but it has no water, sewer or gas available.

Another area to the east of Fort Hill contains 800 acres of flat land but lacks most of the utilities, and access is very difficult.

In the Pinto-Rawlings area, he said, there is a piece of flat land four miles long bounded by Route 220 and the Potomac River. The area has two railroads running down the middle and has tremendous potential for the future, particularly when the Bloomington Dam is completed and the lower end is guaranteed flood-free. Drawbacks at present, he said, are the lack of potable water in quantity and sewage service.

Another piece of potential industrial land is located near the city limits and has all utilities, except sewers, but the necessity of crossing railroad tracks and occasional flooding mar the possibilities of the tract, which will be more desirable when the Bloomington Dam is completed.

The area with the greatest potential, he said, is the North Branch-Mexico Farms section, where all utilities except sewers are available.

He said he hopes the UPIDC can acquire, by purchase or option, a site in that area to use in attracting new industry.

The UPIDC's promotion committee, he said, plans a sustained advertising campaign stressing the Cumberland area and its business, industries and people.

"We want to get the word across," he said, "that money can and is being made here."

The first project, he added, is an advertisement featuring the new float glass plant being built here by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

But he said the advertisement, which will cost from $750 to $800 is being delayed until "we see if we can get something firm in the way of available land."

Eagles Plan Convention In Baltimore

A delegation from Cumberland Aerie 245, Cresaptown Aerie 2883 and Frostburg Aerie 1273, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is planning to attend the Maryland-District of Columbia State Aerie convention in Baltimore this weekend.

Herman L. Myers, state secretary and secretary of the local Aerie said last night approximately 40 persons including members and wives of the Cumberland Aerie will attend the convention. About four members and wives of the other two Aeries in the county are expected to attend.

While the convention officially opens on Friday at 10 a. m. there will be a caucus meeting of the State Aerie officers and the nominating committee on Thursday at 9 p. m. in the home of Chesapeake Aerie 819, Baltimore.

Members of the three Aeries are on various convention committees.

Mr. Meyers, who is chairman of the legislative committee, said a third attempt will be made to put through the "Jobs After 40" legislation. On the same committee are John Smith of Cresaptown and D. M. Hines of Frostburg.

On the judiciary committee is Hubert L. Gillard of the Cumberland Aerie. William T. Damm, president of the local Aerie, John Smith of Cresaptown and Frank Duncan, of Frostburg, are on the nomination committee.

Paul Lease of Cresaptown is chairman of the resolutions and exemplification of the ritual committee. Also on the resolutions committee is Hughey O'Neill of Cumberland.

Louis J. Johnson of the Cumberland Aerie is on the grievance and appeals committee and Lester Barnes, also of the local Aerie, is on the election committee.

W. J. Schupfer of the Cumberland Aerie is on the awards committee and J. M. E. Kelley, city, is on the parliamentary committee.

Bike Inspection, Tags Sale To Begin Here Next Week

The annual program of inspecting bicycles and issuing bike tags in Cumberland will begin on the city playgrounds on Monday and will continue for a two-week period.

The program will be conducted by the Cumberland Police Department in cooperation with the City Recreation Department and the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Issuing tags at the city playlots eliminates the necessity of youngsters peddling through downtown traffic to police headquarters, said Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Inspection and issuance of tags will be held from 6:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. next week at the following playlots:

Monday, June 17, North End Playground; June 18, Pennsylvania Avenue; June 19, Mt. Royal; June 20, Gephart and on June 21, Fort Cumberland Homes.

During the second week the inspection and issuance of tags will be as follows: June 24, Columbia Street; June 25, Post Playground; June 26, West Side; June 27, Centre Street; and June 28, Johnston Heights.

Youngsters are being reminded that tags will not be issued at the police station during the two-week period.

Cpl. Oliver Cook of the police department will be assisted in the inspection of bicycles by members of the Optimist Club. A safe bike requires good brakes, a bell or horn as a warning device and head and tail lights for night riding, police said.

Cost of the tags is 25 cents.

Lights Backed In Ellerslie

In a special referendum yesterday, the voters of Ellerslie gave overwhelming endorsement to the proposal for a public-lighting system in that community.

Complete but unofficial returns reported to Matthew J. Mullaney, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors at 7:22 p. m. yesterday, showed 63.9 per cent of those voting endorsed the plan.

There were 124 votes in favor of the lighting plan and 70 against it. The 198 who went to the polls constituted 67.1 per cent of the 29 eligible to vote.

The special election was authorized by an act of the General Assembly in Annapolis last winter. The tax is limited to 15 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation.

Election officials had some anxious moments yesterday morning when it was discovered that the single voting machine at the community building was not working and a replacement had to be rushed to Ellerslie. Mr. Mullaney said it is believed the machine was damaged in transit.

Area Industrial Potential Rises, UPIDC Is Told

Five Directors Named To Board

Further progress has been made during the past year toward increasing the industrial potential of this area, members of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company were told yesterday.

Nine points of progress were noted by John E. Geare, president, in his annual report to the membership. They are:

The Bloomington Dam, with its industrial water supply, is a step closer.

The new Sacred Heart Hospital and the Memorial Hospital addition are ready for construction.

Further construction on U. S. Route 40.

The Allegany County sanitary program is progressing.

New junior high school construction program.

The expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Increased banking facilities for the area.

Advancement of plans for the Rocky Gap recreation area.

Cites ABL Layoffs

Mr. Geare noted that the area's hopes for a stimulated economy that accompanied Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's float glass line announcement and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company's plans for local expansion were hardly advanced last fall when the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory layoffs brought deep concern to the community.

He said that although necessary employe transfers and terminations have continued in spite of some additional work allocations, the knowledge that Hercules Powder Company is exploring every means by which the facility may be maintained at a high level of employment is most encouraging.

He noted the area is particularly grateful that PPG's accord with local labor people was significant in selecting Works 7 here as the ultimate site of its new float glass production line.

Is Expanding

The Cumberland Blouse Company, which was induced to come here by the development company in 1961, continues to expand and gives every indication of a 50 per cent increase in employment, he said.

He said an ARA Needleworker's Training Program is in progress, that a second course in machine-tool operations has been set up and that a third is being planned.

UPIDC members, he added, have been active in programs for expanding water and sewage facilities as a vital requisite for industrial development.

He noted with regret that the availability of industrial sites at reasonable expanse has become critical and represents a severe obstacle in quickening the interest of industrial prospects.

The report was presented during a luncheon meeting held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Will Organize

Elected to the board of directors of the company were Karl W. Bachman, Edward L. Ewald, C. William Gilchrist, Harry Kauffman and Hugh D. Shires.

New and holdover directors will hold a luncheon meeting June 21 to elect officers and to organize for the coming year, Mr. Geare announced.

Walter Dyck, Garland L. Johnston and William L. Wilson were named as a nominating committee, to submit a report at next Friday's meeting.

Births

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Darr, Fort Campbell, Ky., announce the birth of a son there yesterday. Dr. Darr is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Darr, 621 Oldtown Road. The mother is the former Miss Lois Nehring, 509 Caroline Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cumiskey, Norfolk, Va., announce the birth of a son there yesterday. The mother is the former Eileen Chambers, daughter of Mrs. Anne Chambers, Frostburg, and the late Francis Chambers. The father is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cumiskey Sr., 420 Holland Street.

Six Youths Being Held In Dynamiting

Police Combine Efforts For Arrests

Six young Lonaconing area boys were picked up and held for questioning yesterday evening in connection with the dynamiting of a concrete block pumping station in Dan's Mountain State Park early Saturday morning.

State's Attorney James S. Getty said the boys, who range in age from 15 to 18, were questioned last night in the state's attorney's office and are being held in the County Jail pending additional questioning.

It is expected that they will be formally charged sometime today.

Mr. Getty said the arrest of the six resulted from a combined effort by State Police, county authorities and the Lonaconing police.

Participating in the investigation were Tfc. Milton G. Hart, criminal investigator for the State Police, and Tfc. Robert C. Dishong and Tfc. Raymond Andrews of the State Police; Deputy Sheriff William E. Orr; County Investigator William F. Baker and Officer Peter Holshey of the Lonaconing Police Force.

Mr. Getty said a quantity of dynamite caps and fuses also was recovered.

The state's attorney praised the quick work of the officers in the case. He said dynamiting is a very serious offense and there could have been similar incidents if the dynamite hadn't been recovered.

He said he is going to ask Juvenile Court authorities to waive jurisdiction in the case of the juveniles so that he can present the case to the grand jury.

The use of dynamite to destroy property is a felony and persons convicted may face a jail term up to 20 years, Mr. Getty said.

W. A. C. Irvin, district forester, said there was approximately $500 damage to the building which is used to house a water pump.

As a result of the incident, a 10 p.m. curfew has been placed into effect for the park area.

Large Crowd Expected At Circus

Advance ticket sales for the international, three-ring Hamid-Morton circus at the Cumberland Fairgrounds Friday, Saturday and Sunday indicate large turnouts for all three days, according to Richard Kirsch, ticket chairman for Ali Ghan Shrine Temple.

Mr. Kirsch said ticket sales at the downtown Shrine office, 131 Baltimore Street, "have picked up considerably," and probably will hit their peak Thursday night when the Downtown Business Association sponsors the circus parade.

He added that based on advance sales, Ali Ghan officials are anticipating that 20,000 to 30,000 people will turn out for the circus' six performances over three days.

Tickets still may be obtained from Shrine unit members, area business establishements as well as the downtown office, where general admission ducats can be exchanged for reserved section seats.

Industrial Sites Vital, Partridge Tells UPIDC

The urgent need for land suitable for industrial sites was stressed yesterday by Everett G. Partridge, director, in a report to the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company.

"Without it, in our efforts to attract new business and industries, we are acting somewhat as salesmen without any stock-in-trade," he said.

One point common to all industrial inquiries, he said, was that the prospects wanted to know "what we had to offer for a site and, quite often, what we could show them in a vacant building, either for lease or sale."

Unfortunately, he reported, almost all of the usable buildings in Allegany County are occupied.

Inquiries the UPIDC has had, he said, have asked for as little as 10 acres of land and as much as 500 acres, and an average of 15 to 30 acres.

During his talk, Mr. Partridge illustrated his talk with a topographical map of the county, marked with relatively flat land suitable for industries.

In Frostburg, he said, the Frostburg industrial development group has available a five-acre site with a 17,000-square-foot building which was built for a needle trade industry.

On Route 135 is a possible 15-acre industrial site but it has no water, sewer or gas available.

Another area to the east of Fort Hill contains 800 acres of flat land but lacks most of the utilities, and access is very difficult.

In the Pinto-Rawlings area, he said, there is a piece of flat land four miles long bounded by Route 220 and the Potomac River. The area has two railroads running down the middle and has tremendous potential for the future, particularly when the Bloomington Dam is completed and the lower end is guaranteed flood-free. Drawbacks at present, he said, are the lack of potable water in quantity and sewage service.

Another piece of potential industrial land is located near the city limits and has all utilities, except sewers, but the necessity of crossing railroad tracks and occasional flooding mar the possibilities of the tract, which will be more desirable when the Bloomington Dam is completed.

The area with the greatest potential, he said, is the North Branch-Mexico Farms section, where all utilities except sewers are available.

He said he hopes the UPIDC can acquire, by purchase or option, a site in that area to use in attracting new industry.

The UPIDC's promotion committee, he said, plans a sustained advertising campaign stressing the Cumberland area and its business, industries and people.

"We want to get the word across," he said, "that money can and is being made here."

The first project, he added, is an advertisement featuring the new float glass plant being built here by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

But he said the advertisement, which will cost from $750 to $800 is being delayed until "we see if we can get something firm in the way of available land."

Bike Inspection, Tags Sale To Begin Here Next Week

The annual program of inspecting bicycles and issuing bike tags in Cumberland will begin on the city playgrounds on Monday and will continue for a two-week period.

The program will be conducted by the Cumberland Police Department in cooperation with the City Recreation Department and the Cumberland Optimist Club.

Issuing tags at the city playlots eliminates the necessity of youngsters peddling through downtown traffic to police headquarters, said Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Inspection and issuance of tags will be held from 6:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. next week at the following playlots:

Monday, June 17, North End Playground; June 18, Pennsylvania Avenue; June 19, Mt. Royal; June 20, Gephart and on June 21, Fort Cumberland Homes.

During the second week the inspection and issuance of tags will be as follows: June 24, Columbia Street; June 25, Post Playground; June 26, West Side; June 27, Centre Street; and June 28, Johnston Heights.

Youngsters are being reminded that tags will not be issued at the police station during the two-week period.

Cpl. Oliver Cook of the police department will be assisted in the inspection of bicycles by members of the Optimist Club. A safe bike requires good brakes, a bell or horn as a warning device and head and tail lights for night riding, police said.

Cost of the tags is 25 cents.

Lights Backed In Ellerslie

In a special referendum yesterday, the voters of Ellerslie gave overwhelming endorsement to the proposal for a public-lighting system in that community.

Complete but unofficial returns reported to Matthew J. Mullaney, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors at 7:22 p. m. yesterday, showed 63.9 per cent of those voting endorsed the plan.

There were 124 votes in favor of the lighting plan and 70 against it. The 198 who went to the polls constituted 67.1 per cent of the 29 eligible to vote.

The special election was authorized by an act of the General Assembly in Annapolis last winter. The tax is limited to 15 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation.

Election officials had some anxious moments yesterday morning when it was discovered that the single voting machine at the community building was not working and a replacement had to be rushed to Ellerslie. Mr. Mullaney said it is believed the machine was damaged in transit.

Area Industrial Potential Rises, UPIDC Is Told

Five Directors Named To Board

Further progress has been made during the past year toward increasing the industrial potential of this area, members of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company were told yesterday.

Nine points of progress were noted by John E. Geare, president, in his annual report to the membership. They are:

The Bloomington Dam, with its industrial water supply, is a step closer.

The new Sacred Heart Hospital and the Memorial Hospital addition are ready for construction.

Urban Renewal activity within the City of Cumberland and the new suburban shopping areas.

Further construction on U. S. Route 40.

The Allegany County sanitary program is progressing.

New junior high school construction program.

The expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Increased banking facilities for the area.

Advancement of plans for the Rocky Gap recreation area.

Cites ABL Layoffs

Mr. Geare noted that the area's hopes for a stimulated economy that accompanied Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's float glass line announcement and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company's plans for local expansion were hardly advanced last fall when the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory layoffs brought deep concern to the community.

He said that although necessary employe transfers and terminations have continued in spite of some additional work allocations, the knowledge that Hercules Powder Company is exploring every means by which the facility may be maintained at a high level of employment is most encouraging.

He noted the area is particularly grateful that PPG's accord with local labor people was significant in selecting Works 7 here as the ultimate site of its new float glass production line.

Is Expanding

The Cumberland Blouse Company, which was induced to come here by the development company in 1961, continues to expand and gives every indication of a 50 per cent increase in employment, he said.

He said an ARA Needleworker's Training Program is in progress, that a second course in machine-tool operations has been set up and that a third is being planned.

UPIDC members, he added, have been active in programs for expanding water and sewage facilities as a vital requisite for industrial development.

He noted with regret that the availability of industrial sites at reasonable expanse has become critical and represents a severe obstacle in quickening the interest of industrial prospects.

The report was presented during a luncheon meeting held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Will Organize

Elected to the board of directors of the company were Karl W. Bachman, Edward L. Ewald, C. William Gilchrist, Harry Kauffman and Hugh D. Shires.

New and holdover directors will hold a luncheon meeting June 21 to elect officers and to organize for the coming year, Mr. Geare announced.

Walter Dyck, Garland L. Johnston and William L. Wilson were named as a nominating committee, to submit a report at next Friday's meeting.
